THE WIDOWS' HOME.

Cheap Homes for Poor Widows—Purchase of the Old Pittsburgh and Allegheny Orphans' Asylum—An Appeal for Help.

Last spring, the managers of the Ladies' Relief Society started a project which they long had felt desirable, namely: Providing homes at a very small rent for poor widows who had little children dependent on them. Everything seemed to say to us it was a bad time to commence, particularly as land and labor were so high. But we felt we had delayed too long, and it was unanimously resolved to begin the work, lay it before the citizens of Allegheny, who have never failed to respond to our call for help, and hope that some would remember this object in their dying hour.

Five ladies and five gentlemen were appointed to carry out the wishes of the Board of Managers. They now report that eleven thousand dollars have been collected, and that they have purchased the old Allegheny Orphan Asylum for fifteen thousand dollars. On the first of November possession of this building is to be given, provided the money is paid in full, as the managers of the Asylum need the money to pay for their heavy expenditure in fitting up the new Asylum on Ridge street.

Very few of our citizens have been called on because the gentlemen of the Committee have been either absent or much engaged. Now we feel there is no time to be lost, and we hope all that see this notice will, of their own accord, hand their subscriptions to any of the following persons. We feel sure we should not be one day in collecting our full amount, if we could only place before the public facts that have from year to year come under our observation—poor sick mothers, struggling to keep their children together, working hard from day to day, often having to leave their children locked up at home, and after all to be broken up, because they could not pay the rent of a cellar or garret room, telling us, "We could keep together and I could get enough for them to eat, but it is the rent that wears me out, body and mind."

We desire at once to make a little alteration in the Asylum, so that at least twenty families may be admitted by the first of December, and if we get the means we hope to put up on the north, west and south sides of the lot rows of tenement houses. In the present building we wish to appropriate one large room as a nursery, where the mothers may leave their children under the care of one of their number, whilst they are out at their daily work.

Mothers in Allegheny, is not this a work which commends itself to your hearts? If so, this night when you are putting your little ones to rest in their snug beds, talk to your husbands of your responsibilities, and send them to help to finish the work we have commenced.

THE DUNKARD GOLD REGION.

The Proposed Development of the Lead Regions—The Gold Shaft Steadily Progressing.

Special Correspondence of the Pittsburgh Commercial.

CARMICHAELS, October 22, 1866.

Other pressing duties prevented me, at that time, from fulfilling my promise of giving you a description of the result of a meeting of citizens to discuss the best plan of developing the mineral wealth of Western Virginia, Pennsylvania and Maryland, at the Van Sickle lead mine, on the 18th of September. At present I epitomize by saying that the day was pleasant, the attendance moderate, and the attention and prospect good. The press was represented by one of the editors of the Wheeling Intelligencer. Mr. Van Sickle is still intractable, and utterly refuses to do anything, or to allow any one else that privilege. On Sandy Creek, in Fayette county, the prospect is better, and the probability is that in the spring "things will open out," with a fair show to start on. There will be a meeting of the citizens of that region this week. I have a number of accounts from these regions, together with scientific reports, which I propose to give to your readers during the leisure of this winter. I think they will all be found of general interest. The "gold shaft" is progressing regularly. I am informed by Mr. Ralf Drake, the Mining Superintendent, that the gold found in the Clarksville well was only 260 feet deep. But more anon. L. HARROD BELL.

The New York Herald's New Orleans special says: It is positively asserted in some quarters that President Johnson has urged Governor Wells to force the Constitutional amendment through the Legislature.

Great Rush of Office Seekers.

The President's Impeachment

How it is Proposed to Do It.

Latest Phase of the Mexican Question

Secretary Browning's Indorsement of the President.

Gen. Sickles Interdicts Speculation in His District.

Special Dispatch to Pittsburgh Commercial.

WASHINGTON, October 24, 1866.

Office Seekers.

Notwithstanding the fact that but very few removals have been made, there is no diminution of the number of office seekers or delegations recommending changes in office. The ante-rooms are again crowded to-day. Most of the Philadelphia officeholders were in attendance, urging certain changes in the officials throughout the State.

Impeachment of the President.

A well known eastern Congressman writes here that a resolution will be introduced in the House on the first day of the session, raising a special committee, whose duty it will be to inquire and report if probable ground exists for the impeachment of President Johnson. An elaborate investigation, it is proposed, should be made by this committee, thus removing the existing subject from the House for the greater part of the session.

The Mexican Question.

With regard to the special dispatches published this morning purporting to give the details of Minister Campbell's instructions on Mexican matters, this evening's Star says the modicum of ascertained fact seems to be that Mr. Campbell is certainly here, receiving his final instructions, and that the Government recognizes the Juarez Government, as it has always done. But the allegations that we are to interfere in Mexican affairs to the extent stated, are pure speculation and guess work. The persistently circulated reports in regard to the unqualified support to be given by this Government to the Juarez Government would seem to be spread in the interest of the Juarez party.

Pressure on the President.

The pressure of public business on the President is so great that he intends, in a few days, to issue an order declining to see outsiders. The annual reports, and other important subjects, will be laid before him for the frame work of the annual message.

The President's Policy.

The letter of Secretary Browning, alluded to last night, makes three columns of the Intelligencer. It is regarded in all quarters as showing beyond a doubt that the President does not intend to recommend the Southern States to adopt the amendment.

The Maryland Difficulty.

To-day's Republican truthfully says that the Maryland case was fully discussed in Cabinet meeting yesterday, all the facts having been laid before the Government. No action will be taken by the Administration in the premises unless the Governor of Maryland calls upon the President for aid to suppress an insurrection.

To be Mustered Out.

By general order Headquarters Department of the Missouri, all enlisted men of the Sixth United States Volunteers, on detached service in that Department, are ordered to join their respective companies for muster out of service.

Examining Surgeons.

Drs. A. Wilson, of Sidney, Ohio, and James P. Burchfield, of Clearfield, Pennsylvania, have been appointed examining surgeons of Pension Bureau.

Important Military Order.

General Sickles, commanding the Department of the South, has issued an order providing that no officer, soldier or person on duty in the department in any capacity subject to military authority, will be allowed to trade, either as principal, factor or agent, directly or indirectly, in cotton, or merchandise of any kind, within limits of the district or post where he is stationed. The order provides that no person will be permitted to interfere with the rights of the freed people, in common with all others, to sell and dispose of the products of their labor in their own way, as they may choose.

Statement Prepared.

The statement called for by a resolution of the House of Representatives, of May 28th, 1866, and again on September 1st, by the Committee on Retrenchment, with reference to the disposition made of all cotton and other property coming into the hands of Treasury agents during the war, has been prepared under the supervision of the Commissioner of Customs, and was to-day sent to the Secretary of the Treasury.

Lands Withdrawn.

The Secretary of the Interior has ordered a withdrawal from sale and entry of the lands granted by the act of June last to the State of Michigan, in aid of the construction of a railroad from Fort Wayne, Indiana, to Grand Traverse, Mich.

Revenue Officers Appointed.

The following appointments of Internal Revenue officers were made to-day: Walter G. Beckwith, Collector for 2d District of Michigan; John C. Hay, Assessor for the 10th District of Pennsylvania.

WASHINGTON, October 24.

APPOINTMENTS.

The following appointments of internal revenue officers were made to-day: Walter Breckwith, collector for second district of Michigan; John C. Hay, Assessor for the tenth district of Pennsylvania. J. H. McKee has been appointed Marshal of the Eastern district of Louisiana.

THE SLAVE TRADE.

The State Department has received copies of the Spanish official documents, including one intended to render impossible henceforth the successful prosecution of the African slave trade in Cuba and Porto Rico.

FINANCIAL.

The following figures are from the quarterly reports of the National Banks, October 1st, 1866: Total loans and discounts, $601,238,808; United States bonds and securities, $94,954,150; specie in hand, $8,170,835; legal tenders, $205,870,611; capital stock, $415,278,969; surplus fund, $53,359,727; national circulation, $280,129,558; individual deposits, $563,510,570; United States deposits, $30,420,819.

RAILROAD CONVENTION.

All Leading Roads Represented—A General Railroad Bureau.

NEW YORK, October 24.—A convention, composed of delegates from all the great lines of the country, commenced its sittings at the St. Nicholas Hotel to-day. The object of the meeting of the convention is to consider the proposed movement to establish a uniform system of signals and regulations, and advance the general interests of the organizations. About fifty men, representing all the leading lines in the United States, were present. The assemblage included the principal presidents, directors, superintendents and engineers of the various roads. An aggregate capital of $100,000,000, and three thousand miles of road, were represented. The following resolution was unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That the general object of this convention is the improvement of railroad construction, maintenance and management, and no action should be taken tending to violate the railroad interest or place it in a position antagonistic to their interests, and no subject should be entertained involving political, sectional or similarly exciting subjects.

The attention of the convention was called to the vast extent of country through which the lines represented passed, and it was suggested that a general railroad bureau be established, in which scientific men and able engineers should be employed. The subject was referred to a committee of five, and the convention adjourned till to-morrow morning.

FROM INDIANAPOLIS.

Cholera—Fire—Governor Morton not a Candidate for the Presidency—Union Majority in the Legislature.

INDIANAPOLIS, October 24.—There have been a few cases of cholera here during the past week, averaging one death per day.

A fire last night destroyed Graydan's feed store and Tate's lumber yard, on Alabama street. The loss is probably ten thousand dollars.

The Journal of this morning feels justified in saying that Governor Morton will not be a candidate for presidential honors in 1868, and does not wish to be placed in the category of aspirants.

The official returns for the Legislature show the Senate to have thirty Union to twenty Democrats, and the House sixty Union to forty Democrats.

Destructive Fire in Nashville.

NASHVILLE, October 24.—A conflagration this morning at one o'clock destroyed one million dollars worth of property, involving the Banner office, the large drug house of Yargon & Co., Louis Ens's billiard saloon, the drug house of Havlock & Co., with many smaller establishments, law offices and private apartments. The fire was not checked until three o'clock, and has destroyed all the south front of Cedar street, from Cherry to Printer's alley, extending through to Deadock street. Moise's photograph gallery, well known to the Army of the Cumberland, was entirely consumed. A man sleeping up stairs broke his leg by leaping to the street. A number of the old land marks of Nashville are gone.

Fight with Indians in Montana.

ST. LOUIS, October 24.—Late advices from Montana say a party of mounted men, who had encamped at the mouth of Milk River, were attacked by a band of fifty Sioux Indians. After five hours fighting the Indians were driven off, with twenty-one killed. Four whites were killed and several wounded.

FROM NEW ORLEANS.

Quarantine Abolished—Affairs in Mexico—Juarez at Chihuahua—Important Dispatch from Napoleon.

NEW ORLEANS, October 24.—Sailed, steamer Mariposa for New York. Arrived, ship Squande, dismasted, from Liverpool; Molacka, from Boston.

The order establishing quarantine has been rescinded.

Brownsville dates to the 19th are received. Juarez was in Chihuahua, not yet having gone to Monterey. There is no truth in the report that Mejia had attacked Monterey. All is quiet in that city. Escobedo still remains there. Trevino has gone towards San Luis Potosi with two thousand men, to look after Mejia, who is reported at Asahuela. The latter place is surrounded by Liberals. Tapia is en route to Matamoras with a thousand men.

A private letter received in Brownsville announced a severe battle near Saltillo, resulting in the defeat of the Liberals under Naranjo and Martinez. This victory literally placed Saltillo in the hands of the Imperialists, who were daily expected in Monterey.

A long dispatch is said to have recently been received from Napoleon, which had the effect of halting some French troops about embarking, and others were ordered to prepare for active service.

Confidence in Canales's ability to hold Matamoras is increasing. His force is said to be fifteen hundred strong, most of whom are boys.

It is stated on good authority that Juarez has directed the arrest of Canales and Hinajosa, and their trial by court martial. It is reported he has also ordered the arrest of Caravajal for granting such terms to Mejia and the people of Matamoras. There is nothing new from Cortina.

A band of robbers on the Rio Grande, about fifty in number, has been committing great outrages. They have been pursued by companies of Rancheros and United States Colored troops, and five have been killed. They are composed of Americans enlisted on the Liberal Mexican side, but who deserted after the quarrels in Matamoras. The robbers are well mounted and armed, and are working their way towards San Antonio.

Havana dates to the 15th say it is freely reported that Captain General Lensinale will soon be relieved by another; who is said to have left Madrid on the 10th inst. Queen Isabella's birth-day was celebrated as a holiday. About 10,000 troops were reviewed by the Captain General in the presence of 40,000 people.

FROM SAN FRANCISCO.

The Russian-American Telegraph—Fierce Fight with Indians—Cotton Culture—Heavy Shipments of Tea.

SAN FRANCISCO, October 23.—News from the Russian-American Telegraph Expedition says that the Russian corvette Varioz sailed on the 6th of August for the Amoor river, having on board Count Ponnasoff. The Varioz reached Ghyiga August 15th, and sailed four days later for Ochotsk. Major S. Abasa, chief of the Russian portion of the expedition, had explored the route and determined in regard to the position of the lines between Ghyiga and Ochotsk. Captain Manhood had explored the route between the mouth of the Amoor river and Ochotsk, and joined Major Abasa at the latter point. Various explorations have determined the route between Behring's sea and terminus of the line at the mouth of the Amoor river. Timber was plenty, and four hundred poles were expected to be ready before the close of the present season. The natives were very plenty along the whole route, and offered the use of their dog trains to assist in transporting materials, and have contracted to supply any amount of reindeer meat. Major Abasa has purchased a large number of dog teams, and established fisheries to supply the dogs with food. The Russian Government officials have rendered every facility to the expedition, and this without waiting instructions from St. Petersburg, and Count Ausaff has issued orders to all officials to render any service necessary for the completion of the line. When the necessary material is removed, the work will be put forward with great rapidity.

A Los Angeles dispatch says that a fierce fight had occurred between the citizens and a murderous band of Indians in the vicinity of Hardysville, in which fifty of the latter were killed, and the citizens lost none. Gen. Rufus Ingalls and General M. D. Simpson are on a tour of inspection of the military posts in the Pacific Division. They left Los Angelos October 12th for San Diego and Fort Yuma.

A Leathlet letter of August 31st, says that the growth of cotton is extending. Eighty tons have been shipped to Bordeaux, and eighty tons more would be shipped in January.

The Panama steamer which sailed on the 19th inst., took twenty tons of Japan tea for New York.

The Golden City, for Panama, sailed yesterday, carrying $650,000 in treasure, of which $554,000 goes to New York. Among the passengers were Stephen J. Field and Edwin Forrest, the actor.

Wheat is unchanged.

Mr. Avery refused to surrender the office of United States Assessor for the Sacramento District to John Bigler, who has a commission from the President, on the ground that the President's nomination required confirmation by the Senate. The matter is referred to Washington.

From Montreal.

MONTREAL, October 24.—The counsel for Lamirande have advised the British Ambassador at Paris to demand a cessation of the proceedings against him, until the facts of his abduction from Canada are received.

The Fenian prisoners here will probably be tried at Bedford, but the day is not fixed yet.

From Ottawa, C. W.

OTTAWA, C. W., October 24.—The city is being canvassed for subscriptions for the sufferers by the Quebec fire. The City Council has subscribed £1,000.

A fire is now raging in the woods north of here, causing considerable alarm to the farmers.

Nominations for Congress.

BOSTON, October 24.—The Republicans of the Tenth District have nominated H. L. Dawes for re-election to Congress. In the Sixth District T. O. Prince, of Winchester, has received the Democratic nomination for Congress.

THE METHODIST CENTENARY.

Interesting Meeting in the Allegheny District—Best Plan to Accomplish the Objects of the Centenary Jubilee.

Special Correspondence of the Pittsburgh Commercial.

NEW BRIGHTON, October 22, 1866.

The Allegheny District of the M. E. Church has for a week past, at various points, been considering matters pertaining to the centenary of Methodism. On Wednesday and Thursday last, meetings were held at which addresses were delivered, and the interests of the church were pretty thoroughly discussed. Representatives from several of our educational institutions, (neither last nor least of them being from your own, Dr. Pershing,) persons interested in the erection of various churches, and ministers from different parts of the district, were on hand, and the "talk" was, of course, sometimes a little spicy. Several of the ministers of the district availed themselves of the passing centenial month, and made their pulpit discourses on Sunday last to bear upon the subject; and indeed generally, Methodism has been jubilant considerably this week or so, and expects to be for a little time to come. Monday evening a centenary meeting was held at Sewickleyville, where, after very largely discussing the connectional objects and the general educational interests of the church, they determined on the first plan, to build a parsonage, which will cost some $4,000—a most desirable addition to a charge now among the best in the Conference.

On this (Monday) morning, a fair representation of the people of this town were found in the M. E. Church to hear a centenary sermon, which it was announced would, at 10½ o'clock, be delivered. Dr. W. Cox had been appointed to that service, with Rev. W. N. Locke as alternate, and as the doctor could not be present the lot fell upon the latter, who presented a very fine sermon, founded on Balaam's exclamation, "What hath God wrought?" The sermon was a noble contribution to the literature of this jubilee, and was effectively delivered. We noted as present at the service, Rev. H. Miller, of Canton, Revs. Bracken and Swaney.

In the afternoon, at two o'clock, a meeting was held for conversation and discussions pertaining to the centenary. The meeting was opened by Rev. J. S. Bracken, after which Esquire Glass was chosen Chairman, and J. Horner was chosen Secretary. The object of the meeting was stated by the Presiding Elder, Dr. Williams, after which free conversations were entered into, and remarks were made by Rev. McIlyar, Prof. Taylor, of Beaver Female Seminary, Revs. J. S. Bracken, W. H. Locke, J. Horner, J. Williams and H. Miller. After a very pleasant and free interchange of opinion it was, on motion,

Resolved, That, in the opinion of this meeting, the plan which will best accomplish the objects contemplated in the General Conference in the appointment of this centenary jubilee, is the appointment of committees, who shall canvass the several charges and solicit each member, personally, for contributions, and that the pastors are hereby recommended to adopt this plan in their several charges.

The meeting then adjourned to meet at 7 o'clock, of which more anon. H.

The Southern Press and the Constitutional Amendment.

The World desires us to name the journals in the Southern States which favor the Amendment. We will do better; on our first page to-day we print a number of extracts from the journals in question, or rather from some of them—for there are a number which support the Amendment, for whose arguments we have not space at this time, though their names, so far as we can recall them, will be found below. Some of the Southern journals which favor the adoption of the Constitutional amendment are the New Orleans Picayune, one of the oldest and ablest journals in the South, the Tribune, and the Homer Iliad, in Louisiana; in Georgia, the Savannah Republican and the Loyalist; in South Carolina, the Charleston News and the Journal; in Tennessee, the Memphis Post, the Nashville Press and Times—two of the oldest newspapers in the whole West; in North Carolina, the Newbern Times, the Raleigh Standard, and the Charlotte Democrat; in Texas, Flake's Galveston Bulletin, the Austin Southern Intelligencer, and the San Antonio Express, the ablest papers in the State; in Virginia, the New Nation.

The number of those which favor the adoption of the Amendment, as a practical measure of statesmanship, increases every week, of late, and the discussion of its terms is becoming general in the Southern press.—N. Y. Post.

SUDDENLY RICH.—One day this week a hard working young man received a letter from New York, announcing the death of an aunt who left a large estate, a full half million of which will come to him. He appears to be very sensible, as he is an industrious and temperate man, and on receiving the intelligence completed his day's work as though nothing had happened, and after having been to New York to confirm the facts in the case, has returned to his daily labors, which he will continue till the administration of the estate is completed.—Newburyport Herald.

The Lost Steamer "Evening Star."

Further Details of the Disaster—Arrival of the Second Officer in Savannah, Georgia.

[From the Savannah Daily News, 19th.]

Mr. Wm. A. Goldie, second officer of the lost steamer Evening Star, whose arrival at the mouth of the St. John's river we reported in our issue of Wednesday last, reached this city last evening, and has kindly furnished us with the following hastily prepared, though strictly correct, narrative of the foundering of the Evening Star, and his perilous voyage from mid ocean to the Florida coast: Left New York Saturday, three o'clock, P. M., having on board two hundred and fifty cabin and steerage passengers, and a crew of seventy persons. Crossed the bar at Sandy Hook. At six o'clock, P. M., discharged pilot. Very strong breeze from the N. E., with rain and heavy sea. Monday, 8 A. M., made Cape Hatteras; moderate breeze and heavy swell from S. E.; crossed the Gulf Stream as usual. At midday on Tuesday, 2d instant, fresh gale from N. E., and cloudy; all sail set, ship making eleven knots per hour. Four P. M., blowing a heavy gale with a tremendous sea; the ship making bad weather; took in all sail, and hauled head to sea. At 8 P. M., blowing a tremendous hurricane, and wind changing to all points of the compass; all of the crew at their several stations, ready for any emergency in case of accident. 10 P. M., a heavy sea struck the ship on her port quarter, carrying away steerage gear and throwing one of the quartermasters over the wheel, breaking his right arm. The ship fell off into the trough of the sea. Hooked relieving tackles immediately; shipped a heavy sea, carrying away paddle boxes and bursting in engine room doors, besides breaking steam pipe and filling the engine and fire room with water, putting out the fires in the furnaces. The engineers immediately had donkey fire boiler to pump ship; all hands, including the male passengers, at work bailing the ship. At midnight a heavy sea struck the ship, carrying away the donkey smoke pipe and filling the ship with water, putting out fires in donkey boiler. Got steam on again as soon as possible, the water gaining fast. All of the lady passengers at work bailing water from the after saloon, under the supervision of the purser and steward. At four A. M., Captain Knapp gave me orders to have all the boats ready, with oars, breakers, provisions, and compasses well secured in them, and resort to him, which was immediately attended to.

At 4:30 A. M. I had all the boats ready as ordered, and reported the same to Captain Knapp; at 5 A. M., ship was settling fast; Captain Knapp went to the saloon door and told the ladies that he had done all that laid in his power to save the ship; that she could float but a short time longer, and for them all to repair to the boats, each of which had an officer stationed at them to take charge and see that the passengers were properly placed in the boats. The ladies all came on deck without any excitement, and very calmly went to the boats. In my boat there were, as near as I could judge, between forty and fifty ladies. I unhooked the tackles and swung the davits clear of the boats; the boat still remaining in her chocks on deck. In a few minutes after the boats cleared, the ship settled forward to the top of her rails and gave a surge aft and went down, carrying all with her.

On coming to the surface, the first thing I got hold of was the top of the after house. I saw the boat about thirty feet from me, bottom up, and a number of sailors clinging to her. I immediately made for her, got on to the bottom, and hauled up four ladies on to the boat with me, and by surging to one side, succeeded in righting her. I then paid my attention to getting the ladies into the boat, and succeeded in rescuing twenty-nine of them. On examining my boat, I found everything had been washed out of her. We managed to get the boat clear of the wreck, but not until a number of my passengers had been killed by floating debris from the wreck washing over the boat. I saw another boat with but two persons (passengers) in her. They having oars, I motioned them to pull ahead to keep clear of my boat, but they not knowing how to manage her, she came foul of me, the capsizing my boat. On again regaining it, succeeded in righting her, and picked up four ladies and four gentlemen, cabin passengers, the remainder having been drowned by the capsizing of the boat. In about one hour after I picked up another passenger, a French gentleman of the opera troupe. I afterwards saw a number of passengers clinging to pieces of the wreck. My boat being full of water, and having nothing to manage her with, it was impossible for me to render them any assistance, the safety of my boat and passengers requiring my whole attention. It is impossible for me to say what became of the other boats.

On the 4th I picked up six turnips, which I gave to the ladies to eat. I also picked up an awning rest, in which I made a mast of, using my shirt for a sail, and steering the boat with a piece of thwart, I shaped my course for the westward.

On Friday, the 5th, I had a fresh breeze from the eastward, the boat going along finely under sail. I heard the gentlemen complaining bitterly for the want of water, the ladies remaining perfectly quiet. About dark one of the ladies died.

Saturday, the 6th, strong breezes from the eastward, and heavy sea. We were all suffering dreadfully for want of water, and against all of my warning they would drink salt water, which made them a great deal worse, some of them becoming insane.

Sunday, 7th, heavy gales from eastward and heavy sea. At about 7 we made a sail and steered for it. She passed without seeing us. She was so near that I could see her. At about 9 A. M. one of the gentlemen passengers jumped overboard and was drowned. At about 5 P. M. two more of my gentlemen passengers becoming insane, jumped overboard and were drowned. At about 10 P. M. a heavy sea struck the boat, capsizing her, and drowning one lady and one gentleman. The gentleman's name was Frank H. Dennis.

I succeeded in righting the boat and getting on board the three remaining passengers, one gentleman and two ladies. I then made a drag with my mast and boat's painter, and kept the boat's head to the wind during the remainder of the night.

Monday, October 8, about two A. M. the remaining gentleman passenger jumped overboard. I succeeded in getting him on board again. He remained for about five minutes, when he went forward and jumped overboard again and was drowned. He was a member of the Opera Troupe. The weather moderating, the two remaining ladies and myself rigged the boat out with a piece of one of their under garments. We then made sail on the boat and steered to the westward. At daylight I found myself in colored water, and steered to the westward, with light breeze and hot sun, we all suffering so terribly from thirst and hunger, the ladies became speechless. Their names were Miss Addie Norton and Mrs. Rose Howard, of New York.

Tuesday, 9th.—A fresh breeze sprung up from the eastward, with a heavy swell. About 2 P. M. I made the land and stood for it. About 6 P. M. I made a light, but could not steer for it on account of having no manageable sail. About one hour after this a shower came up; I caught some water with a piece of their clothing and wrung it into the mouths of the ladies, which so revived them that they could speak. As near as I can remember, about 10 P. M., I got inside of the outer breakers. After passing through three breakers, and thinking we were safe, the fourth breaker struck the boat, rolling her completely over and over, throwing us all three out. It being very dark, I could not see either of the ladies; they were much exhausted; they must have perished immediately. I swam to the shore, and as soon as I got on the beach I looked for my boat and found her but a few feet from me. I searched for the ladies, but could not find them; I then strolled along the beach to find assistance and water. At 9:30 A. M., 10th inst., I arrived at May Port Mills, Florida, at the mouth of the St. Johns river, where I was kindly received by Mr. A. B. Floyd, who rendered me ready assistance, as also did Dr. James J. Eastman, United States Surgeon. I also return my thanks to the Captain and officers of the United States steamer St. Mary, Mr. Sullivan and Mr. Kemps; also to Mr. Chisholm, of the brig Freedom, and his chief officer, for their assistance in recovering my boat.

The body of Miss Norton was recovered on the morning of the 10th inst., and buried on the beach; and that of Mrs. Howard was not recovered until the 12th, and was taken to May Port, and interred in the United States burying ground. I would also return my thanks to Captain King and officers of the steamer Lizzie Baker, for their kindness to me on my passage from St. Johns to this port. W. A. GOLDIE, Second officer of the late ill-fated steamship Evening Star.

Placing Obstructions on Railways.

Within the past month we have announced at least three railroad accidents, whose cause was traced to the placing of obstructions on the track by malicious and evil disposed persons. The recent accident on the Atlantic and Great Western Railway, near Union, was the result of malice, and the agent of the Company offers a reward of two thousand dollars for the detection and arrest of the perpetrator. Imprisonment for life would be an easy punishment for the villains who perpetrate these outrages. The latest instance of this species of villainy we have heard of is contained in the Steubenville Herald of Tuesday, as follows:—The Western bound freight train on the Pittsburgh, Columbus and Cincinnati Railroad, was thrown from the track Friday morning about five o'clock, by obstructions placed on the track near Montgomery Station, which is five miles East of Newark. The locomotive, baggage and Express cars were completely turned over, and considerably damaged. The passenger cars were only thrown from the track. Strange to say, no one was killed, and only one man, a brakeman, was severely injured. Obstructions were placed on the track Saturday, but fortunately they failed to accomplish the purpose intended. A man who lately had some horses killed by a passing train is suspected of having placed the obstructions on the track.

The London Times and its Motive.

The Tribune comments on the London Times and the motive that actuates it, in reversing its course on the Alabama claims, as follows: "There is no sincerity in the Times with regard to the Alabama business; by which we mean, that, although yielding to the force of circumstances, it has changed its tactics, its real sentiments, on the subject remain to day what they were from the beginning. The Times understands thoroughly the doctrine of expediency. It knows when to disparage and affect to despise, and when to flatter and profess to honor. It knows where resistance ought to end and concession to begin. With regard to the article on the Alabama claims, of which so much has been made, the motives which dictated it are palpable. It has been penned avowedly with reference to the contingency of Great Britain becoming involved in war, and to the reprisals which would in that case be made upon British commerce. The Times thinks it sees danger ahead from the present state of parties in this country."

HIGH GAME.—A foreign paper publishes the following anecdote concerning the Emperor of Austria while out shooting:

His Majesty is always attended by a Captain of the Guards, whose duty it is to observe the effect of each shot and announce it. The Emperor, for instance, strikes a partridge; "partridge!" cries the captain. Next time it is a buck; "buck!" shouts the captain. One day the Emperor fired, missed the game, and wounded one of the gentlemen of his suite. The latter on being struck uttered an exclamation. "His Highness the Duke of Hackenberg!" announced the captain, without the slightest change of feature or tone.

NEGRO SUFFRAGE.—Says the Greensburg, Pa. Herald, of yesterday: "We propose to add another mite to the evidence accumulating everywhere, that in opposition to the Democratic cry against negro suffrage, they are the very men, everywhere, who vote negroes. In the borough of Greensburg, on the day of the last election, a Democrat marched 'a man of African descent' up to the polls and had him vote the whole Democratic ticket, though he was not a resident of the district even. Yet, John Dick, a Democrat, did that thing, and a Democrat Election Board took the vote."

SECOND EDITION.

4 O'CLOCK A. M.

BALTIMORE.

Forney and Others to be Indicted.

No Returned Rebels Registered

The City Very Quiet

NEW YORK, October 24.—A Baltimore special to the Herald, dated to-day, says: Attempts are being made to secure indictments against John W. Forney, the editors of the American and the Police Commissioners, for attempts to incite a riot and insurrection. Witnesses are already summoned. The Grand Jury have not yet acted. There is no change in the situation. Abundant evidence will be furnished on Friday to justify the Governor in any action he may take. There is no truth in the statements that returned rebels are registered here. They have all held aloof. The tone of the Radical press is considerably modified. Neither the rebel raider, Harry Gilmore, nor his friends, have had anything to do with the matter. The city is very quiet.

BALTIMORE, October 24.—There are no new developments in regard to the Police Commissioners. Their counsel still adhere to their original determination not to participate in the examination of witnesses on Friday. Rumors have been current here to-day of the arrival of troops from Washington, but they are incorrect. It is true that some troops are expected here shortly, to embark for Texas, and that a colored regiment will be sent here to be mustered out of the service. These are the facts which have probably given rise to the rumors of troops being ordered here with reference to pending difficulties. The interview of General Canby with the authorities here, all reports to the contrary notwithstanding, was of a most friendly and mutually satisfactory character.

Mr. Peabody arrived here this afternoon, and was received by the Mayor and a committee of the City Council, at the Philadelphia depot, and escorted to Barnum's Hotel. The trustees of Peabody Institute also participated in the reception. The dedication of the Institute will take place to-morrow.

MEXICO.

Situation of the Empire Growing Worse.

Meeting of Council of Ministers

Great Prevalence of Disease.

NEW YORK, October 24.—Advices from Mexico to the 9th, and Vera Cruz to the 13th inst., have been received via Havana. The situation of the empire is daily growing worse, and it has latterly lost Guaymas, Beunosello, Ures, Sianor, Zongolica, and other places of less importance. The Era Nouvelle announces that on the 6th an important conference took place at the palace at Chapultepec upon the most efficacious means to obtain funds for the treasury, and a committee was appointed to draw up a report, which was all that was accomplished.

The Estafette says a Council of Ministers met on the 6th, Maximilian presided. Questions of the gravest importance were submitted to the Council.

Havana advices of the 20th received, say the news from Mexico states that the Belgian officers, whose term of service was up, had left for Europe.

On the 12th about 900 soldiers of different French corps de armee arrived at Vera Cruz. The 31st corps was also expected from the interior. This body would be the first to return to France.

Yellow and typhoid fever, with chills and ague, were raging at Cordova, and had caused such a panic that many families have emigrated.

At the capture of Uran by the Liberals, the Imperial General Traugbery was killed. It is said that this Government has purchased of the United States two monitors at an expense of $2,000,000, and as the Government has no [illegible] two wealthy citizens of this city have [illegible]. The Captain General has been lately making a personal inspection of the fortifications and barracks of Havana. He went this morning on a visit to Matamoras, and has accepted an invitation to Cordenas. His successor, General Manzano, is expected on the 28th.

Specials to the Herald from New Orleans, October 20th, says: Your Matamoras correspondent sends the following, under date of October 19th: The anticipated attack on Matamoras, by Cortina, has not yet come off, though he was very confidently expected in a few days. Cortina has announced, in an official communication to Colonel Sedgwick, that he should attack Canales, and in accordance with an order from the Supreme Government, both parties are making energetic efforts for the coming conflict. Business is almost entirely suspended here, and most of the merchants are on the other side. The gunboat Cainaco is still in the hands of the United States authorities. Canales, Cortina and Escobedo have asked for her. Colonel Sedgwick responds that he will await the decision of his superior authorities. Escobedo is still at Monterey.

In a communication received at Brownsville, dated October 6th, he writes: General Trevino has marched to the interior with four thousand troops. All we hear pending is insignificant. Matamoras, which I think will be settled before twelve days, as I have two thousand men in this place, with which I intend to suppress the meeting there. The troops of Victoria and Tampico are in accord with him, and will act in conjunction in his operations in the interior.

Information has just reached here that Gen. Topia, with eight hundred men, is escorting a conducta with $800,000 from Monterey to Mier. The steamer Jerry Galvan has gone up the river to bring the money down. Upon his arrival there, Topia will immediately proceed to this city, drive out Canales, and assume the Governorship by virtue of his commission from Juarez. He will doubtless act in conjunction with Certinas.

A correspondence in reference to the rights of American citizens has been going on for some days past between the commanders on the respective shores of the Rio Grande. It has terminated in an amicable adjustment of all questions. It is not known that any commissioner of Ortega has arrived here from New York, though expected. Myriads of dead fish have recently been thrown on the shores of Brazos and Padre Islands, supposed to be the result of volcanic action.

THE NEW POLICY.

Our Relations with Mexico—French Troops to be Withdrawn Within Three Months—A Republican Form of Government to be Established—French Claims not to be Guaranteed.

NEW YORK, October 24.—A Washington dispatch to the Times says: It is more than possible that the French troops will leave Mexican soil within three months. In view of the possibility of disturbance in the country, and the anxiety arising from the numerous factions and cliques that have for so long cursed that land, our Government will be prepared to protect the recognized republican Government of Juarez, and establish it on a firm and secure footing. In consideration of these services, the concession of Lower California and the northern portion of the States of Sinaloa and Chihuahua, is made to the United States. It is no part of the agreement yet made that the United States is to guarantee the claims of France against Mexico, though such a course may yet appear expedient and proper, in which case the Government of this country will not hesitate to take the responsibility. The main point sought to be faithfully enforced is the Monroe doctrine, by removing European intervention from Mexican affairs, and securing to that country a stable Republican form of government. The responsibility of this undertaking was fully discussed by the Cabinet, and the decision has been unanimously arrived at that the time has come for the energetic action indicated in the proceedings above foreshadowed. These proceedings have now taken a definite form and shape, and have entered so far into prosecution as to be beyond recall.

FROM TORONTO, C. W.

Trial of the Fenian Prisoners.

TORONTO, C. W., October 24.—The trial of the Fenian prisoners captured at Fort Erie, in June last, commenced at noon. Colonel John B. Lynch was first placed in the dock, and plead not guilty. Solicitor General Cockburn and Hon. J. H. Cameron, M. P., appeared for the Crown. John B. Martin, of Hamilton, and J. H. Doyle, of Toronto, for the defendants. Kenneth McKenzie watches the proceedings in behalf of the American Government. The prisoners' counsel challenged ten jurors before the jury was completed, which consists chiefly of farmers and mechanics from the country. Hon. Mr. Cameron opened the case for the crown in an address to the jury. The first witness was Thomas Newbeggins, of Fort Erie, who identified the prisoner as holding a command among the Fenians while they camped on his father's farm. The evidence of the prosecution occupied from noon till 6 P. M. One prisoner turned Queen's evidence, and confirms the statements of the other witnesses. Adjourned till to-morrow morning.

New Jersey Bribery and Corruption Cases.

TRENTON, N. J., October 24.—The bribery and corruption cases are still in progress. In the case of the State vs. Charles Rub, the jury returned a verdict of guilty on the third count, which charged an attempt to bribe only recently, with a recommendation to the mercy of the Court. The indictment against Daniel Holsmon was next called. After spending half a day in the examination, the Court said the State had failed to make a case, and directed the jury to render a verdict of not guilty, which was done. The indictment against Garrett Van Wagoner, of Passaic, will be moved to-morrow morning.

A letter from Judge Chase was read in the United States Court, stating that although Circuit Judges cannot hold a Court until a new assignment, by Congress, of districts, the Circuit Courts might be held by District Judges.

SECRETARY BROWNING'S LETTER.

A very long letter from Mr. Browning, Secretary of the Interior, is published in the morning journals and Washington Intelligencer, taking strong ground against the proposed confiscation amendments. A correspondent of the Times says that on being submitted to the President, he fully approved it, and desired it to be made public, with the understanding that it fully represented his present position.

LATE NEWS ITEMS.

Information has been received in New York of the murder of Mr. Gilbert Eaton, son of Mr. Orsamus Eaton, the head of the celebrated car building firm of that city, at Lincoln, Illinois, by a man named Warwick, who was quarreling with the partner of the hotel, where Mr. Eaton was stopping, and with whom Mr. Eaton remonstrated, when the man turned upon him and stabbed him to death with a dirk.

A special from Troy, says: The creditors of the suspended firm of Arden, Frink & Co. of Cohoes, are here from New York, endeavoring to secure their debts, and represent that the firm bought recently upwards of $30,000 worth of goods which never left the city, but were there sold at auction. This unpleasant fact materially damages their case.

The Times's Washington special says: In regard to our affairs with England, growing out of the depredations during the late war of the privateers Alabama and Shenandoah, Mr. Adams, our Minister to the Court of St. James, was, some time since, instructed to make a preparatory demand for indemnity for the loss sustained by our commercial interests. To this demand Mr. Adams received an evasive reply. He was immediately instructed to repeat the demand. He did so, but no definite response has yet been received, but the tone of the English newspapers received indicates that these renewed and persistent demands have not been without some effect.

The British Government is now putting out feelers in the various organs showing their disposition in the matter. From these it appears that they are willing to submit the claims to arbitration or to a Board of National Commissioners. Our Government will accept no arrangement of this sort, but will insist on a prompt and full payment of the claims. This is our ultimatum as contained in the instructions under which Mr. Adams is now acting.

A Washington special says: President Johnson is taking the position that the present removals from office are not actuated by partisan feeling. The removal of his personal revilers is justified by many precedents. So far from removing soldiers from office who are not politicians, strict orders have been given to the Postoffice Department not to interfere in such cases, but, on the contrary, a preference is to be given to soldiers who are competent whenever vacancies occur by removal or otherwise. Whenever injustice shall have been done in the removal of an old soldier and the appointment of an anti-war man, it is only necessary to present a statement of the fact to the proper quarters to insure prompt rectification on the principles of rotation in office, which has always been entertained by the President, and it is suggested he might as well exercise it now as at any other time.

STATE ITEMS.

It is said that about twelve million dollars are invested by citizens of Berks county in United States Government bonds, which shows a very considerable amount of patriotism, notwithstanding the six thousand Copperhead majority in that county.

It is said that an extension of the East Pennsylvania Railroad to the Delaware river at Easton has been determined upon, and that the road will be put under contract before long. The new road will cross the Lehigh at Allentown, pass the northern limits of Bethlehem borough, and run parallel with the Lehigh to Easton, there to connect with the roads for New York, and also with the Delaware and Belvidere road for Scranton. The distance from Allentown to Easton is eighteen miles.

Rev. Samuel Helffenstein, the oldest minister in the German Reformed Church of the United States, died in Philadelphia on Wednesday last, aged ninety-two years. He was known personally to every German Reformed congregation in existence in Pennsylvania during his active ministry, he having been prominent in all the operations of the denomination to which he belonged.

A project is in contemplation to erect a monument in honor of the fallen soldiers and sailors from Crawford county—the cost of the shaft to be in the neighborhood of $25,000.

The Huntingdon Globe says: "Mr. Hiram Johnston, of this place, we are sorry to say, was arrested on Saturday last, charged with forging a check on the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, for $718. He was taken to Harrisburg where an investigation will be made, and it is hoped he is not the man. The forgery is said to have been committed at Harrisburg on the 25th of September, on which day Mr. Johnston is said to have been at home."

A Reading correspondent says: "On Saturday last, Captain Wm. A. Sands, whisky inspector under the assessor of this (Eighth) district, at a salary of five dollars a day, was removed by order from headquarters, and Mr. Randolph Keim appointed. The latter was for a time war correspondent for the New York Herald, with the army in Tennessee, and it is alleged that he got himself into some difficulty for sending news calculated to give aid and comfort to the Confederates. As this is denied by Mr Keim's friends, we can only say that we know that he is one of the most intense Copperheads in our midst. Captain Sands, during the 'misunderstanding' between our 'Southern brethren' and us Northern Radicals and 'fanatics,' committed the unpardonable crime of helping to kill and cripple our said brethren."

THE GALE IN INDIANA.—At Indianapolis considerable damage was done by the gale Sunday night. The hurricane raged from 12 o'clock, midnight, until 3 o'clock in the morning. The National bridge across White river was partially unroofed, and several houses blown down or severely injured. Fences and standing crops were blown down in the surrounding country. At Greencastle, Indiana, two large business blocks were demolished. At Evansville a new four story marble front building was blown down; loss, $30,000. Turner's Hall, in process of erection, was also blown down. The storm was general in the western part of the State.

A GENTLEMAN who has taken some pains to obtain information, says that there are not less than fifty thousand French Canadians—men and women—at work in mechanical and manufacturing establishments in Eastern and Central Massachusetts. They are generally steady and prudent; the larger portion of them are young and unmarried, and very few of them are regular attendants at church.

MARYLAND.

The Present Difficulty.

The Conflict Between Gov. Swann and the Police Commissioners.

History of the Troubles.

We copy the following interesting account of the trouble in Maryland, from yesterday's New York Tribune:

BALTIMORE, October 21, 1866.—To a casual observer there is but little evidence of excitement here or any particular indication of serious trouble consequent upon the attempt to supersede the present Police Commissioners in the interest of the secession element here. A closer investigation and inquiry into the determination of the loyal portion of the citizens, however, reveals an earnest purpose on their part to resist even to the bitter end any forcible attempt on the part of the renegade Governor of the State to commit the political power into the hands of the faction, which, during the war, was unremitting in its efforts to place the State on the side of the rebellion.

It may be well to a proper understanding of the present condition of things, here to briefly state the facts which have preceded and led to the existing complication. It is known to the country that after the successful efforts of the National Government and the loyal people of this State to preserve it from being plunged into the vortex of disunion and rebellion, a convention was called to revise the Constitution, and that they discharged their duties so effectually as to relieve the State from the incubus of slavery, and prohibit the active disloyal element from any participation in the elective franchise. The Constitution provided that every voter should take a very stringent oath, and exclude from voting any person guilty even of sympathizing with the rebellion in its attempt to destroy the Union. The Constitution further made it the duty of the Registry Boards and of the Judges of Election to exclude from registration and voting those who were known as active sympathizers with the rebellion, even if they manifested a willingness to commit perjury to secure the right of suffrage.

Under this Constitution, which was adopted by a majority of the loyal people, the present Executive and Legislature were elected. Since his election, however, Governor Swann has abandoned the party which honored him with his present position, and has joined hands with the disloyalists in their attempt to carry the State over to the party who are attempting to secure to the late rebels, through Executive action, the power which they failed to obtain through armed rebellion. The Governor, under the Constitution, appoints the registers of the voters, and these have been uniformly selected from those who are willing to favor the conspiracy to place the Border States on the side of the late rebels. It is charged, and the charge can be fully substantiated, that in the present registration the name of any person willing to perjure himself by taking the iron clad oath has been placed upon the Registry, no matter what his previous record has been. It is well known that the most malignant secessionists have thus been allowed to register, and openly proclaim their intention to take part in the election on the 6th of November. It was intended to carry the recent election against the Unionists in this manner, but the opinion of the Attorney General (which the Governor tried, but failed to suppress), that the election must be held under the old registration, frustrated that scheme, and the former municipal Government was re-elected.

In Baltimore city and county the Judges or Inspectors of Elections and the clerks are appointed by the Board of Police Commissioners. The Board in the discharge of their duty made their appointments for the ensuing year, and appointed men to the position whom they knew to be in favor of the Registry law, and disposed to enforce it and prevent the polling of illegal votes.

Finding that the game was against them thus far, the opposition practically abandoned the contest for municipal officers, and a very light vote was polled. Now they appeal to the Governor to set aside this election on the ground of unfairness and illegality, and remove the present Police Commissioners from their positions and appoint a new Board, who will turn out the inspectors and clerks now holding office, and appoint others who will disregard their obligations and allow rebels and rebel sympathizers to vote. They have trumped up a series of charges against the Commissioners, and on them demand their removal. These charges have already been published in the Tribune, and on these the Governor has summoned the Commissioners to appear before him at Annapolis, at 10 o'clock to-morrow, to respond, and has appealed to the President to sustain him in enforcing their removal, should it be determined on and resisted.

The Commissioners will deny the power of the Governor to act in the premises, and will not appear at Annapolis to-morrow in person. It is understood, however, that they will be represented by counsel, who will protest in their name against the proceedings. If this conspiracy could be carried out there is no doubt but that Maryland would be carried against the Union party in every Department of the State Government, and that the present loyal Representatives and Senators in Congress would be succeeded by men in active sympathy with the South. Gov. Swann is himself a candidate for the Senatorship, in place of Mr. Creswell, and it is his ambition for this position which has caused his desertion of the loyal men who elected him to his present office.

The petition for the removal of the Commissioners was presented by a man who, in his speech upon the occasion, avowed himself a sympathizer with the rebellion, and is numerously signed by others who were known during the war as active and malignant enemies of the Republic. If they can secure the removal of the present Judges of Election every rebel sympathizer whose name has been placed upon the registry will be allowed to vote, although it is made the express duty of the Judges to exclude such votes from the ballot-box. Among those who have taken the iron-clad oath is the President of the Legislature which met at Frederick, in 1861, and tried to take the State out of the Union, who was arrested by Gen. McClellan at that time and imprisoned in Fort McHenry. Another was allowed to register, who stated at the time that he was one of those who fired upon the 6th Massachusetts Regiment on the 19th of April. These are specimens of the fairness with which Governor Swann's Registrars have discharged their duty, and it is understood that the same course has been pursued throughout the State. The only safeguard now against illegal voting is in the Judges of Election, and these once secured in this city and county they are sure of the election of the twenty-one members of the Legislature sent from here, and two members of Congress in place of the present loyal representatives and a United States Senator in place of Mr. Creswell. It will be seen that the stake is worth striving for, and if the Governor's courage can be raised and maintained at the requisite pitch there is no doubt but that an attempt will be made to carry out the programme.

There seems, however, to be but one sentiment and determination among the loyal Union voters, and that is to resist to the last extremity any such attempt. They say that the Police Commissioners have done nothing that can be construed into a reasonable cause for removal, and that such action on the part of the Governor would be an outrage which they would be justified in using force to resist. It is of the utmost consequence that Maryland should be kept in the Union ranks and under loyal control in view of future complications, and they intend to maintain their ascendancy unless fairly voted down under the Constitution.

Meetings are nightly held in various parts of the city by both parties, to organize the forces for a possible conflict. The "Boys in Blue" are very active, and there was a full and enthusiastic meeting at their headquarters last evening, at which reports were made from each Ward of the number who could be relied upon to sustain the Commissioners against any illegal action of the Governor. The meeting was a private one, and the result of the canvass is not made public, but it is known to have been highly satisfactory. They are determined not to be put down, and, in case of necessity, will appeal to the loyal citizens of the North for aid. The rebels threaten to bring the power of the General Government against them, and think they can rely upon the army of the United States to aid in carrying out their behests. Your readers are already aware that yesterday Gov. Swann visited the President, and had a long interview with him. What the result of that interview was has not transpired here as yet, but from the fact that there is a perceptible toning down of the pretensions of the opposition, it is believed that the President hesitated to precipitate civil war upon the State.

It is understood that an offer has been made to compromise the matter, withdraw the charges against the Commissioners, and abandon the prosecution, if they will appoint an opposition Judge and Clerk at each Precinct in place of one of each of those now holding the appointment. It is not probable that this offer will be accepted; but it shows the weakness of the movement against the Commissioners, and is a confession of the lack of foundation of action against them.

It is reported on very good authority to day that the Governor, although desirous of carrying out his portion of the programme, and thus securing his own election to the Senate, in view of the demonstration made in favor of the Commissioners, and the certainty that such action will be forcibly resisted and lead to bloodshed, slaughter, and great destruction of property, lacks the nerve to consummate the outrage. He has received a remonstrance against his taking the proposed action, signed by the Directors of the First National Bank, of which he is President, and comprising the names of some of the wealthiest men of the city. This remonstrance has a great effect upon his mind and, combined with the other influences brought to bear upon him, will, it is believed, induce him to pause and refuse to lend himself to the violence which shall plunge the State into revolution and anarchy.

Some excitement was created here this morning by the announcement that President Johnson was in the city, having come on from Washington in the regular Sunday morning train. It was at first surmised that he had come with the Governor, who reached here last night, to consult with the leading Secessionists on the situation, but it turned out that it was in accordance with an invitation, previously accepted, to attend the imposing ceremonies of the closing day of the great Catholic Council, which has been in session here for the last two weeks.

There are but very few United States troops in or about this city, probably not to exceed 200 in all. There are, however, 2,500 in the Department of Washington, which could be concentrated here in a short time. It is said that the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad have had orders to hold themselves in readiness to transport troops here at short notice, but the truth of this statement has not been verified.

The conclusion which is arrived at by your correspondent, upon a full and careful consideration of all the facts and the indications thus far afforded of the probable course of Governor Swann and the faction that is trying to use him, is that the proposed outrage will not be consummated, and that the effort to oust the Commissioners will be abandoned or rejected by the Governor, and that the coming election will in the main be peaceful and quiet. Should, however, these anticipations prove delusive, and the attempt persisted in, it seems impossible to avoid an outbreak which will result most disastrously to the city and State, if not to the whole country. The matter will be decided one way or the other in all probability within the present week, and may possibly reach a solution at Annapolis to-morrow.

Little Kanawha Navigation Scheme.

The stockholders of the Little Kanawha Navigation Company met in Parkersburg on Monday afternoon, Mayor Gilfillan in the chair. It was found that stock to the amount of upwards of $50,000 had been subscribed. The old board resigned, and a new board was elected, consisting in part of both the old and new subscribers. The board is now composed of the following gentlemen: J. J. Jackson, Sr., J. N. Camden, Edward Braiden, S. Prager and Solomon P. Wells. The President of the old company being absent, in Philadelphia, will hold his office till the regular annual meeting in January. On motion of Gen. Jackson, the following resolution was unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That the entire work be immediately put under contract, to secure Lock and Dam Navigation from Parkersburg to Burning Springs.

REMARKABLE DISCOVERY.

Colony of Jews in Central China.

The New York Times prints a letter dated in June last, at Pekin, China, in which the writer furnishes an account of his visit to a colony of Jews living in the city of Kai-fung-fee, which is situated in the central part of the Celestial Empire. He says:

"They were discovered by the celebrated Father Ricci, and early in the seventeenth century, full inquiries concerning their usages and manuscripts were made by Jesuit missionaries, who resided in that city. In 1850 a deputation of native Christians was sent among them by the Bishop of Victoria and the late Dr. Medhurst. Two of the Jews were induced to go to Shanghai, and some of their Hebrew MSS obtained; but up to the date of my journey, for more than a century and a half, they had not, so far as we are informed, been visited by any European. It became, thereafter, a matter of interest to ascertain their present condition.

Arriving in this city on the 17th of February, I inquired for the Jewish Synagogue, but getting no satisfactory answer, I went for information to a Mohammedan mosque, of which there are no fewer than six. I was well received by the Mufti, who informed me that the Jewish Synagogue had come to desolation. I passed through streets crowded with curious spectators until I came to an open square, in the center of which there stood a solitary stone. On one side was an inscription commemorating the erection of the synagogue in the reign of the Sung dynasty, A. D. 1164; and referring the first arrival of the Jews in China to the dynasty of Hon, B. C. 200—A. D. 200.

On the other side was a record of its rebuilding in the dynasty of Ming, about three hundred years ago, but in addition to these inscriptions it bore an unwritten record of decay and ruin. A great crowd of Jews assembled and there, on this melancholy spot, where the very foundations of the synagogue had been torn from the ground, and there no longer remained one stone upon another, they confessed to me with shame and grief that their "holy and beautiful house" had been demolished by their own hands. It had long been in a ruinous condition; they had no money to repair the breaches of the sanctuary. They had lost all knowledge of the sacred tongue, the traditions of the fathers were no longer handed down, and their ritual worship had ceased to be observed. In this state of things they had yielded to the pressure of dire necessity and disposed of the timbers and stones of that venerable edifice to obtain relief for their bodily wants. They were very ignorant, but answered, as far as they were able, my inquiries in regard to their past history and present state. Some, indeed, true to their hereditary instincts, are employed in a small way in banking establishments, (the first man I saw was a money changer,) others kept fruit stores and cake shops, drive a business in old clothes, or pursue various handicrafts, while a few find employment in the military service. Their number, they estimate—though not very exactly—at from two to four hundred. They are utterly unable to trace their tribal pedigree, keep no register, and never on any account, assembled together as one congregation. Since the cessation of their ritual worship, their children grow up without the seal of the covenant. The young generation are uncircumcised, and, as might be expected, they no longer take pains to keep their blood pure from intermixture with Gentiles. One of them confessed to me that his wife was a heathen. They remember the names of the Feast of Tabernacles, the Feast of Unleavened Bread, and a few other ceremonial rites which were practiced by a former generation, but all such usages are now neglected, and the next half century is not unlikely to put a period to their existence as a distinct people."

GENERAL SHERMAN.—A St. Louis dispatch says: "It is true that General Sherman has been called to Washington, but whether his presence there has any connection with Secretary Stanton's retirement from the War Office is not known."

Per contra, the Leavenworth, Kansas, Conservative, of the 20th instant, says:

"A few days ago General Sherman received, in the telegraph office at Wyandotte, the Associated Press dispatch giving him the War Office. It was remarked by the General that the contents of the dispatch were very new to him. These Washington specials have a queer faculty of disposing of Cabinet officers and filling the vacancies at pleasure."

CITY MATTERS.

BOARD OF COLPORTAGE.—At the last meeting of the Board of Colportage of the Presbyterian Synods of Pittsburgh and Allegheny, the Rev. David McKinney, D. D., was chosen Librarian and Treasurer.

BURNED TO DEATH.—E. G. McIntosh, son of Mr. L. McIntosh, shoe dealer in Allegheny City, was burned to death at the recent conflagration in Oil City. His remains were brought home yesterday for interment.

HELD TO BAIL.—Wm. Calohan, who was arrested in Cannonsburg, on Tuesday night of last week, while in the act of robbing McFadden & Alexander's store, has been held to bail in the sum of four hundred dollars for his appearance at the Washington county court to answer.

NEW POSTOFFICE.—A new Postoffice has been established on the Perrysville Plankroad, four miles from the city, and named "West View," which opened last Tuesday. John Shaler, formerly proprietor of "Our House," on Diamond alley, is Postmaster.

"BOYS IN BLUE."—A meeting of the Executive Committee of the county organization of the "Boys in Blue" will be held this (Thursday) afternoon, at four o'clock, at the office of General Pearson, No. 61 Grant street. A full attendance of the members is desired.

DIED OF CHOLERA.—A telegraphic dispatch was received yesterday from Cincinnati, stating that John Joyce, a pedler by occupation, and whose family resides on the corner of Fifth street and Pennsylvania Avenue, in this city, died in that city on Tuesday night, of cholera.

COMMITTED FOR TRIAL.—William Downey, charged with committing an outrage upon the little girl Elizabeth Fetherington, had a hearing before Justice Edward Sprung, of West Pittsburgh, and was committed to jail yesterday for trial at Court, in default of five thousand dollars bail.

RELEASED ON BAIL.—Thomas McCarty, who was committed to jail some five weeks since by Mayor Morrison, of Allegheny, on a charge of setting fire to a trading boat on the Ohio river, was released yesterday, having procured the required bail for his appearance at Court to answer.

A GOOD APPOINTMENT.—General George S. Gallupe, formerly Major in the Eighth Regiment Pennsylvania Reserves, and afterwards Colonel of the Fifth Heavy Artillery, has been appointed to a Captaincy in the regular army. The General proved himself during the war to be an excellent officer, and was breveted Brigadier General for gallantry in the field.

TAKEN OVER.—Thos. Spencer, alias King, alias Shotwell, and Wm Perkins, alias Henry, alias Hendricks, the Oakland counterfeiters, who were convicted and sentenced yesterday, the former to fifteen years and the latter to ten years imprisonment, in the Western Penitentiary, were conducted to their new quarters yesterday by Sheriff Stewart.

THE PERRYSVILLE TROTTING PARK.—On Friday afternoon there will be two contests for speed on this course. The first will be a trot to harness for a premium of $100, for which the following entries have been made: Concord, Sleepy Kate and Lady Gumbert. The second, to saddle, premium $50, between Grey John, Col. Grey and Soft soap No. 2. Should the weather prove favorable, a good race may be anticipated.

THE FIFTH STREET SHOOTING AFFRAY.—Henry Hedrick, of Birmingham, who was shot on Fifth street, on Tuesday night, by Thomas Smith, was still living yesterday evening, but his condition had not materially improved. He is attended by Dr. James Kerr, of Birmingham, and Dr. A. G. Walter, of this city. Mr. Hedrick states that he was walking along the street with a friend at the time he was shot, and had not interfered in the quarrel between the two Smiths. Noad Smith, who was shot at the same time, was only slightly injured, and will be able to walk around in a few days. Thomas Smith was committed yesterday morning to await the result of Mr. Hedrick's injuries.

DEATH OF A WELL KNOWN CITIZEN.—We are pained at having to announce the death of Mr. John S. Cosgrave, one of our best known citizens. He expired last evening at his residence on Federal street, dying without pain, and in the midst of sympathising relatives and friends. Mr. Cosgrave was, some years ago, a prominent and influential resident of Pittsburgh, but for some time past he has suffered from continued ill health, having often been, for long periods, a confirmed invalid. He was a gentleman of comprehensive information and culture; a warm friend and genial companion; one whom all that knew him liked; one whom all who remember will think of with pleasant recollection, and experience heartfelt emotions of regret at his untimely taking off. The deceased was only forty-four years of age.

Wood Street Property at Auction.

This (Thursday) afternoon at 4 o'clock, on the premises, will be sold that very valuable three storied Brick Warehouse and Lot, No. 29 Wood street, now occupied by King and Pennock. T. A. McCLELLAND, Auctioneer.

Public Amusements.

PITTSBURGH THEATRE.—Once more last evening "O'Donnell's Mission" was repeated. It will be presented for the last time to-night. To-morrow "Dombey and Son" is announced for revival. Next week "Pocahontas" and Mr. Brougham's less known burlesque of "Columbus" are to be produced. The last is one of his happiest efforts, but it requires a cultivated audience to properly appreciate it.

OPERA HOUSE.—There was produced at the Opera House last evening an adaptation by Mr. Couldock of Beaumont and Fletcher's powerful, but, somehow, very heavy play of "The Betrothal." This piece contains a wonderful amount of character painting, and the dialogue is, by turns, nervous, witty and poetical in the highest sense to which we can put those words. It is the piece whereon Lovell founded "Love's Sacrifice," the piece from which he drew nearly all his inspiration. And it has far more real merit than this modern counterfeit of its original vigor. Still it will be attractive now, and we should recommend its immediate and permanent relegation to some private place of safety. It would be unjust not to state, though, that Mr. Couldock's "Marcio" is one of his finest, most elaborate and artistic efforts, in its way, that ever was seen on any stage. To-night "The Betrothal" will be repeated.

THE ARABIAN NIGHTS.—This novel and attractive entertainment continues to draw houses so crowded that standing room is at a premium, while a thronged vestibule full of anxious applicants have to be vehemently informed that there is not space enough left to accommodate a single individual. This happens before the rise of the curtain. It is undoubtedly a first rate exhibition of its kind and deserves its full measure of success. By all means take the children to see it.

SMYTHE AND AIMS'S VARIETIES.—The usual variety of unrivalled fascination, in the way of music, song and beauty, brings together a tremendous gathering every night. The place was never doing so well and was never managed with half so much ability and enterprise.

United States District Court.

The United States District Court met yesterday morning, when Stewart, King and Perkins, convicted of counterfeiting, were brought before Judge McCandless for sentence.

Martin L. Stewart was the first called up. The prisoner kept a store at Brush Valley, Indiana county, and was tried and convicted last week on a charge of passing fractional currency. He was sentenced to pay a fine of one thousand dollars, and undergo an imprisonment of five years in the Western Penitentiary.

Thomas King, alias Spencer, alias Shotwell, one of the Oakland counterfeiters, was next brought up. By permission of the Court, King made a statement, in which he asserted his entire innocence of the charge of which he had been convicted, and claimed to be a victim of the Government detectives. He said that he had been employed as travelling agent for a Chicago firm, and the spurious money and materials found in his possession were not his property. When he had concluded his remarks the Court sentenced him to pay a fine of five thousand dollars, and to undergo fifteen years imprisonment in the Penitentiary.

Wm. Perkins alias Henry alias Hendricks, who was convicted at the same time, was sentenced to pay a fine of three thousand dollars, and undergo an imprisonment in the Penitentiary, for the term of ten years. The prisoners had also been convicted of two other indictments, but the Court remarked that as the President had been induced, by false representations, to excise executive clemency, in a number of cases, he would not pass sentence upon them at present, but would hold them for future action, in case the defendants secured a pardon by any such means.

The business of the term having been completed, the jury was discharged and the Court adjourned.

THE HAND BOOK OF TRAVEL FOR THE UNITED STATES AND CANADA, Published by Messrs. Appleton, N. Y., is now completed for Pennsylvania and the city of Pittsburgh, and we are requested by the compiler, Mr. Edward Hall, to state that he will be glad to receive communications from any citizens relative to buildings or enterprises which have not hitherto been noticed in that work. Our city and neighborhood have grown and improved apace since the publication of the last edition of the Hand Book (1866) and both the editor and publisher are desirous to secure as complete a guide to our present city and suburbs as possible. Mr. Hall's address is 92 Grand street, New York.

DEATH OF CAPTAIN A. B. JOLLY.—The numerous friends of Captain A. B. Jolly, of the Northern Line packet Savanna, will learn with feelings of deep regret of his death, which occurred on Thursday, the 23d instant, by a railroad accident, near Keokuk, Iowa. Captain Jolly was well and favorably known on the Mississippi Rivers, from Pittsburgh to St. Paul, and had been identified with the Northern Line ever since its organization. His sudden and violent death will cast a gloom over his host of acquaintances, who sincerely sympathise with his wife and family in their irreparable loss. His funeral will take place from the residence of his brother, Mr. A. J. Jolly, Phillipsburgh, Pa., on Saturday, the 27th instant, at ten o'clock, A. M.

THE CHILDREN OF THE STATE.—The Beaver Argus of yesterday says: On last Sunday the soldiers' orphans, under the tuition and care of Rev. W. G. Taylor, of Phillipsburg, came to this place in a body, and attended the church of Rev. D. P. Lowry. They marched hither in two ranks, were neatly dressed, and appeared to be under the best of discipline. There were fifty-two boys and fifty girls in the procession, with Mr. Taylor and an assistant teacher at the head of the column. From what we have been able to learn, Mr. Taylor discharges his duty towards these children in a manner very satisfactory to the public; and we have repeatedly heard it stated that the children themselves almost idolize him as their teacher and protector.

METCALF'S RHEUMATIC REMEDY.—The most wonderful remedy now before the people for those excruciatingly painful afflictions rheumatism, neuralgia, gout and nervous headache, is represented by innumerable and unimpeachable testimonials to be Metcalf's Rheumatic Remedy, for which Joseph Fleming, Esq., corner Diamond and Market streets, near Fourth, is the agent in this city. This remedy acts like a charm, cures all pains almost as soon as applied, and never fails to benefit the sufferer. It is a remedy that should be in every household.

CALL ACCEPTED.—At an adjourned meeting of the Presbytery of Ohio, held last week, a call was presented by the Sixth church, of this city, for the pastoral services of Rev. S. J. Wilson, D. D., which was accepted. Dr. Wilson has been Stated Supply of this church for several years. At least three hundred persons were present at the election, and the vote was unanimous for Dr. Wilson. His installation will take place some time in November.

ARRESTED FOR MAKING BONFIRES.—Five boys were arrested by the Allegheny police on Tuesday night, for making bonfires on the Commons. They were placed in the lock-up for the night, and discharged yesterday morning by Mayor Morrison with a reprimand, and upon promising not to make fires again.

Over 13,000 of Wheeler & Wilson's Machines were sold during the last quarter, being more than double those of any other company. They are the cheapest, simplest and best. 2t

LYON, SHORB & CO.,
211 Water street,
MANUFACTURERS OF ALL SIZES OF
MERCHANT BAR IRON
Of the "Sligo" & "Tyrone" brands

The Daily Commercial

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 25, 1866.

THE PRESENT QUESTION.

The following paragraph we find in our exchanges:

The official returns show that the quantity of railroad iron exported from Great Britain in the first seven months of this year reached 312,732 tons, as compared with 224,102 tons in the corresponding period of 1865, and 266,536 tons in the first seven months of 1864. A very large share of the increase observable this year is attributable to the United States, which took no less than 60,079 tons, as compared with 23,825 tons in the corresponding period of 1865.

The truth of the above we have no reason to dispute. At the same time we are able to make another statement, the accuracy of which is equally indisputable. It is this: the United States, while they are a large and increasing customer of England, possess within themselves the elements for making iron, that are in quality and quantity equal, if not superior, to those of England. In other words, we buy abroad when we have the means for making as good if not a better article at home. When, in the progress of enlightenment, it was discovered that it was better to divide the grist of corn by putting one-half in each end of the bag, instead of the grain in one end and a stone in the other, there doubtless were those who could not see it; and to undertake to convince them they who had tested the matter probably thought would be a useless expenditure of breath. And so it would seem in regard to buying abroad what we can just as well, if not better, manufacture at home. Keep on increasing our purchases of England, and the time will come when she will supply us entirely, and although we will have every thing from which to make iron, and whatever we need, they will be of no more value than so much sand or rock from which nothing we need can be made. That which, under an American system, would be given to our people to do, at good wages would, under the British, or free trade system, be given to the British people—and British capital would have the profits which would otherwise be retained in this country, to scatter blessings which ever go hand in hand with well-paid labor and prosperity to capital.

The free trader will tell you it is best to buy where you can buy cheapest—to let those manufacture who can manufacture cheapest. That is a theory. For the last three or four years we have had a bit of practice. Under the rate of exchange incident to the price of gold, our manufacturers have enjoyed a brief season of protection. If they have been prosperous, labor was never so well paid; and on the whole, our population was never so well off. Never, within an equal time, did it acquire so much, or obtain such a start in the world. Now, if the theory of the free trader be the right doctrine, this incidental season of protection—a season when the theory was completely upset—should have been an injury and not a benefit to American Capital and Labor. The commonest mind will be able to understand that theory is one thing and practice quite another. The extent to which England has sold us, in spite of the protection in the exchanges, was, logically according to the free trader, just so much of good to us, and it would be the best for us to close our shops and mills and buy wholly of England. Of such good, give us the least possible.

But there are extraordinary considerations attending the question of protection and production. By heavy taxation only can we pay the interest and gradually extinguish the principal of our National debt. And it is from productions that taxes are collected. Need it be said—need any man, charged with the adjustment of our revenue system—be told that without products there will be nothing to tax, and that as the quality of the products is will be the volume of the income from taxation? Within the last year, Pittsburgh manufacturers have paid, we will say, two millions into the Treasury of the country. We ask, had England manufactured for us—had we, under the free trade system, purchased abroad, where we could have purchased cheapest, instead of manufacturing at home, what part of that two millions would have found its way into the National Treasury? And if the Labor and Capital of this Nation are not to be kept employed—if we are to buy abroad, and not manufacture at home, how does Mr. McCulloch expect to pay the debt, or even meet the interest?

Our able Secretary of the Treasury is rejoicing in large receipts, in consequence of the protection Labor and Capital have enjoyed under the extraordinary state of things existing in the country the last four years, and not from any legislation there has been. This incidental protection has been for some time declining, and legislation is needed to supply its place,—in other words, a tariff of duties is needed that will give the protection the high price of gold gave. As gold has come down, and protection become less, we have imported more and more, as is seen in the text, and we have manufactured less. As the wheel will continue to revolve for a time after the driving power has ceased to be applied, so will our industrial system continue to work for a time, even after the protection that gave it buoyancy has ceased. The stream which is pouring into the Treasury its millions will have a volume at the mouth when the head fountains and the thousand rivulets that feed it have dwindled or become dry,—but let not Mr. McCulloch—let not Congress—while observing with satisfaction the beauty and constancy of the volume at the mouth, forget that it depends on the sources; which, in turn, will give forth only under fostering influences.

ASSERTION OF THE MONROE DOCTRINE.

If the information we have received concerning the new Mexican policy of the Administration be correct, we must say that, from whatever motive it has been adopted we cannot but admire and indorse the evidences of vigor and decision by which it is characterized. The public mind has long chafed under the apparent indifference of Mr. Seward to the affairs of our neighboring country, and have viewed with some concern his neglect to enforce our cherished Monroe doctrine.

It was not Maximilian they minded so much; but that he should be sustained by French troops; that Napoleon should presume to dictate a form of government to any people on this Continent; more especially that he should have taken advantage of our great calamity to gain a footing in immediate contiguity to an exposed part of our national domain: these were outrages that were involuntarily resented, and a great part of the indignation that was felt, very naturally fell to the lot of Mr. Seward for not entering his protest against the unwarrantable intrusion, and unequivocally declaring that, when our own civil war was over, we would speedily deal with the Emperor and his Austrian stool-pigeon.

These were the sentiments of the impetuous. The more reflective and less eager were content to wait till the war was fairly finished; but, that end once achieved, they too became impatient and called for immediate action. But Mr. Seward is a shrewd and crafty manipulator of the game of politics. He never plays a trump so long as he has the least hope that his partner—the President, for instance,—can take the trick in suit. And the Mexican business was a trump of the largest dimensions, not by any means to be lightly thrown away. To use another illustration: It was not a mere tub, to be thrown out for that great whale—the people's—diversion; it was his best harpoon, and must be saved for an extremity. This present juncture of politics—when the public mind is much excited about domestic matters and popular disapproval is brewing into a storm, which he feels the present Government can no longer face—he has chosen as the time for "roughing in" with this irresistible ace; as the moment for launching his most trusty weapon. We will not quarrel with him for waiting for a season of so great emergency to his own interests and those of the Administration of which he is the brains. We are satisfied with a vindication of the Monroe doctrine, whatever may have impelled Mr. Seward to that course of action; and are equally satisfied that the people will not be distracted by it from consistently carrying out the great principles for which they have lately been striving.

The National Intelligencer has a way of its own, which we commend to our democratic friends, in drawing comfort from the October elections. It does not doubt that, although defeated now, two years hence it will be all right with the friends of the President. The victory they have failed to achieve now, the easy-minded journal does not doubt will be gloriously won then,—which will be just as well, if not better in the end, for all concerned. The philosophy of the Presidential organ is commendable—the very best it could adopt. It will be good to live by, and, we can safely say, if held on to, it will be found equally good to die by.

"MY POLICY" IN "MY MARYLAND."

Ambition is infectious. When Kings acquire lust of dominion their satraps and henchmen aspire to proportionate shares of aggrandizement. When Presidents scheme for an extension or prolongation of power, public officers of less exalted rank are sure to follow suit. This is the most mischievous result and influence of Andrew Johnson's endeavor to plant himself above the reach of Congress, and in a position of direct antagonism to the laws, and the will of a majority of the people of the loyal States. The first thing we find is a tragic burlesque of his example by mobs in Memphis and New Orleans; the next a feeble imitation of it by the Governor of Maryland.

With all the details of the incipient revolutionary movement in Maryland, the press has made its readers fully acquainted. Every one must, by this time, have studied and formed an opinion upon the leading points of the case; but they do not all know what these mere exterior demonstrations are intended to cover. They can see that "here bad begins," and, no doubt, have an instinctive feeling that "worse remains behind." But that which is worse than the present situation, and which we expect to see developed in the course of two or three days, has, as yet, not been generally understood and recognized. Apparently the contest between Governor Swann and the Police Commissioners of Baltimore is nothing more than a question of jurisdiction—a question as to whether the Governor has the right to remove the Commissioners at pleasure, or whether he is not obliged to have them duly convicted of malfeasance in office before exercising that power. This is the superficial motive of the controversy. The real motive, an effort is being made to conceal.

The Commissioners claim that no accusation has been brought against them of sufficient moment to even justify their trial. They declare that the informal complaint framed against them by ex-rebels, under the lead of a few Johnsonians, and presented to the Governor in an irregular and under-handed manner, is not the kind of indictment to which they can legally be held to answer. It is stated against them, for instance, that at the late municipal elections, they appointed judges of the returns solely on the basis of political proclivity, and that by virtue of the registry law itself, this is a misdemeanor. For this they are cited to appear before the Governor, to show cause why they should not be at once relieved. The Commissioners retort, with almost cruel cogency, that His Excellency was elected by a vote of which these same judges were the supervisors, and the inference he is obliged to draw is, that if they were good enough to scan the vote that placed him where he is, they must certainly be good enough to decide on that which is to be given this fall for members of the Legislature. They might have suggested to the Governor that his doubts as to the fitness of these election judges had been probably generated by a sense of his own unworthiness.

Now this would be a very pretty quarrel if it could be made to stand just there. It would then have no more significance than the local trouble between the New York "Municipals" and "Metropolitans"—Fernando Wood and Albany—in 1856. But, in this case, far more stupendous interests and principles are involved. The matter is not local to Baltimore, nor confined to the State of Maryland. It is the germ of a great national issue; may be the entering wedge of another brief spasm of civil war.

Governor Swann has imbibed, from association with Andrew Johnson, the latter's eagerness to rule, and a small measure of his obstinate resolve to rule how he pleases. Primarily he wants, as Governor, to exercise arbitrary authority in his small sphere, the same as Andrew Johnson would exercise it in a more extended one. Having run to the length of his gubernatorial tether, he would then be advanced to a seat in the United States Senate, where, in conjunction with that brace of recreants—Doolittle and Cowan—he could assist in forming a grand Triumvirate of Apostacy.

He thinks, and probably not without reason, that the members whom the loyal citizens of Baltimore would be apt to send to the Legislature, might not be favorable to his Senatorial hopes, and that his only chance lies in the choice, by fair means or foul, of "my policy" men and reconstructed secessionists. He is very likely right; therefore, his only plan, if he would make success a certainty, is to do all he can to ensure the return of those on whose support he can rely. To accomplish this end he evidently intends to stick at little or nothing; and he confidently relies upon his bold treachery to the party that elected him Governor being backed up by the still bolder personification of perfidy ensconced at Washington.

What the issue of the first act of this drama—the trial of the Commissioners—will be, we shall probably learn to-day. If the Governor concludes to dismiss them, trouble is threatened. The friends of the Commissioners, among whom are reckoned a few thousand Boys in Blue, swear they will resist what they regard as usurpation. The President virtually intimates that he will sustain the Governor with United States troops. The "Plug Uglies" and "Blood Tubs"—ancient enemies as they were—have joined hands—as they might be expected to do—to fight against anything that has to them the semblance of law and order. Possibly blood will once again "fleck the streets of Baltimore."

Some of our extreme cotemporaries, advocate under these circumstances, another uprising of loyal men North, and a march to the Capitol and the scene of strife, that shall overawe a reckless Chief Magistrate in one place and trample out the last embers of rebellion in the other. It would be superfluous for us to point out to any thinking man how dangerous a precedent such a proceeding would establish. Moreover, we do not believe it will be necessary. There are enough policemen and Union soldiers in Baltimore to use up all the rowdies and rebels in the place in less than twenty-four hours.

The Richmond Times states that "several gentlemen acting as agents of French capitalists," who have been looking about "with the view of investing large sums in Virginia enterprises," the continuation of the James River Canal among the rest, have left—"unwilling to conclude negotiations until they know what is to be the fate of that people and country with whom they propose to risk their wealth."

Was there ever so innocent sufferers as these Southern people! They have done nothing,—they intend to do nothing, except to live the life of lambs, just as they ever have done. Foreign capitalists go away purely because Congress behaves so,—but it is noticeable they do not hesitate to invest all over the North, where Congress behaves just as badly.

Has it ever occurred to the Times that, possibly, something may be the matter with the South itself? Is it not barely possible that the French capitalists have left on account of the way the South conducts herself? Why do capitalists come North when they leave the South?

First Snow.—The first flurry of snow drifted in upon us yesterday from the Northwest, reminding us that we had progressed well on to the short and chilly days. Our Illinois and Wisconsin exchanges speak of snow on Monday last, following close upon the violent gale of which the telegraph has given us accounts. The season of gales and disaster on the coast and lakes is at hand.

Chicago Journal.—This most excellent paper, following the latest and best styles, has put on a new suit, in which it presents as fresh and bright an appearance as it is possible for typography to make it. The Journal is one of the best of the many excellent papers in the Northwest.

Egypt.—A letter of the 27th September from Alexandria, Egypt, says that the country was threatened with an inundation of the Nile, then very high. There was great anxiety for the crops, which were very fine in all Lower Egypt, and which it was feared would be spoiled. Every precaution was being taken, but the situation of affairs seriously affected trade. The revolt in Candia will have imposed extraordinary heavy charges on the Egyptian Treasury. The Viceroy is said to have furnished thirty thousand men, four of his principal Generals, including the Minister of War, money, coal, ammunition and provisions. The Suez Canal Company contemplate soon undertaking the transport of certain kinds of merchandise, but it seems doubtful whether they will be able to supply efficient means of conveyance. The traffic across Egypt is enormous. Lately in a very short space of time, twelve thousand bales of manufactured goods for India passed over the Suez line, and a great deal of cotton comes from Bombay by that route. There has been a reduction of twenty-five per cent. on the rate of carriage of goods sent by slow trains.

GENERAL INTELLIGENCE.

As an instance of rapid transportion in three days, it is stated by the Baltimore American that a great number of packages, brought by the steamer Carroll, of the Baltimore and Liverpool Line, were recently properly examined and passed in due form at the Baltimore Custom House, and shipped, per the Baltimore and Ohio railway, to the far west, where they are to arrive, according to the railway time table, in just nineteen days from the period of their shipment from Europe.

Manufactures at the South are beginnnig to grow encouraging. One factory, in Augusta, has turned out during the past year 6,110,000 yards of cloth, and a profit of only two cents per yard would amount to about twenty-five per cent. on the capital of the concern—$600,000. This proves that there is profit to be acquired in the manufacture of cotton where it is grown.

The center of a large building, covering two lots on Broadway, in New York, and which is five stories high, is reported to have sunk five feet, leaving the building in a weak and dangerous condition. The entire edifice will be taken down and rebuilt.

The Paris correspondent of the New York Sun says that grounds around the Great Exhibition building are being laid out in walks and drives, bordered with trees which cost forty dollars each. The extent of the avenues, alleys, and garden walks, inside and out of the building, is to be something fabulous, and will, at the lowest estimate, exceed sixty miles.

A London letter writer tells us that a thieves, college has been discovered in that great city. There are men and women teachers of the art of Cartouche and the Dodger, the pocket handkerchief, the purse and the watch chain departments being presided over by different professors. Burglary and the use of the garotte is taught by experts, and the accomplishment of begging letters is a branch in itself.

The Philadelphia Press announces that Gov. Curtin has lately signed a bill, which renders legal, bills of lading, and warehouse and elevator receipts, for grain, produce, flour and so forth. All the principal Eastern cities have long enjoyed the benefits of a legislation which protects the banks in co-operating to forward their substantial interests.

The Chicago Driving Park is to be abandoned, the buildings torn down and horse racing ended in Chicago. All this in consequence of the McKeever murder.

The English bench lately decided at Westminster that it was a principle of common law that a counsellor, in questioning a witness, should address him in ordinary tones and in language of respect, such as is employed by one gentleman in conversation with another; that such lawyer has no right to question the private business or moral character of a witness, any further than it is apparent they absolutely affect his reliability, or touch the case in hand; and that a witness is not bound to answer questions put to him in an insulting or annoying manner.

The Journal d' Agriculture Pratique, a standard French authority, says that "the vintage of the present year will probably be about 45,000,000 hectolitres, (the hectolitre is rather more than 22 gallons,) a third less than that of last year and the quality will be 'inferior to that of 1863' which was not a very good year.' The reports, however, from the Medoc districts, state that a few days' fine weather have greatly improved the vineyards, and that the expectation now is that the quantity will be larger than at one time had been thought possible, and the quality 'fair and marketable.' As to the stock of wines that will remain in hand for next year, it is estimated by authorities in these matters at 17,000,000 hecolitres."

In his letter of acceptance Mr. Peabody expressed his intention to give a further donation of half a million dollars to the Peabody Institute, the dedication of which he will attend on the 25th instant.

—Two opinions prevail with regard to the alleged insanity of the "Empress" Carlotta, of Mexico. Very many believe it to be a mask, through the temporary wearing of which Maximilian may have a decent show to get back to his home. The next news will be, most probably, that poor Max. himself is crazy; though the small distribution of brains in his family disallows this at second thought.

—Longfellow reports the completion of his translation of the Divine Comedy;" Lowell has finished the second series of the "Bigelow Papers;" Agassiz has in press his "Travels in Brazil;" Emerson is reading the proof sheets of a new volume of poems, and Holmes is now busy over a new romance.

COLORADO.

To the Editor of the Commercial.

The daily report of the New York Stock Exchange, show trantactions in a long list of gold and silver mining stocks. It is well known that with two or three exceptions, they are the stocks of Colorado companies, a fact of much significance, and which leads to the inquiry, Why are they the favorites? Capital is always sagacious, whatever may be said of its discretion at times. A glance at Colorado will serve to explain its popularity at this time. It must be considered under three heads, with their subdivisions, to be fully understood, to wit: Its geographical situation; its resources in the precious metals and minerals, and its agricultural capacities.

It is bounded on the north by Montana and Nebraska, on the east by Kansas, on the south by New Mexico, and on the west by Utah. It is directly west from Pennsylvania, and its eastern boundary line is less than five hundred miles from the Missouri river. About one-third of its area extends out into the "Plains," the "Great American Desert" of our schoolboy days. The other two-thirds is of mountain formation, the first upheaval, seen as you approach from the east, being called the "Black Hills," the background of which, the "Rocky Mountains," towering from an altitude of fifty-five hundred feet at their base, to near fifteen thousand feet above the ocean, their peaks covered with perpetual snow. On the west side of the main Range or Rocky Mountains, which has a course north east and south west, put out transverse ranges of a less altitude, and from them again, latteral ones without number, their valleys forming the beds of the rivers and numerous streams, that have their never failing sources of water in the eternal snows of the summits. In this grand mountain formation are four Parks once the bed of great inland Lakes, but now immense meadows of grass and other vegetation, the southern one, "San Luis Park," now subsisting a large agricultural population. Four great rivers have their sources within a few miles of each other, viz: the Platte and Arkansas, flowing eastwardly into the Missouri and Mississippi, respectively, the Rio Grande passing southwardly into the Gulf of Mexico, and the Colorado River, flowing southwestwardly into the Gulf of California.

On the flanks of this focal upheaval are the present mining operations, having two local names, to wit: the "Gregory Mines" and the "South Park Mines; those of Boulder, Gilpin and Clear Creek counties comprising the former, and those of Park, Lake and Summit counties those of the latter, and are embraced in a distance of about thirty by one hundred and twenty-five miles, with intercommunication by good roads. The commercial centre is Denver, situated out on the Plains, on the Platte, and twelve miles from the base of the mountains. Central City and Black Hawk, the principal towns of the Gregory mines, are in Gilpin county, and forty miles from Denver, connected therewith by "Holliday's Overland" daily line of coaches, as they are with the States. Empire and Georgetown, distant from Central City about ten miles, are the center of mining operations in Clear Creek county, and have a bright future, not alone on account of their rich mines, but because the Pacific Railroad will pass by their doors. This Herculean enterprise, now spanning the Continent, bisects Colorado, passing from its eastern to its western borders, and according to General Dix, its President's statements, in his oration at the laying of the corner stone of the Douglas Monument at Chicago, September 6th, 1866, will "on the first day of April next, be within two hundred miles of Denver." At the present rate of construction, one year from April next, the road will be finished to that point, which is practically to the mines. There is now, and has been for several years, telegraphic communication between the East and Denver, Central City and other places in Colorado. At the base of the mountains in Colorado will begin the heavy railroad work, and of necessity the construction of the line afterwards will proceed slowly, giving Colorado the benefit of railroad communications with its attendant train of advantages years long before any other mining region will have a like benefit. Thus, geographically, its situation is most favorable, enabling it to become the recipient of all the early advantages of direct and speedy communication with the States.

Advices from Wisconsin and Minnesota represent that the crops of corn in those two States have been materially reduced by the heavy rains early in the month, while the wheat crop will not exceed, if it reaches, two-thirds of an average. The damage throughout Minnesota has been almost universal.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

The Authorship of Shakespeare. By Nathaniel Holmes. One vol., 12 mo., p. p. 601. New York, Hurd & Houghton. Pittsburgh, Davis Clark & Co., 93 Wood street.

It would be as useless to attempt to persuade the great mass of the literary and reading public in this country, England and Germany that the plays attributed to William Shakespeare were not written by him, as to make the mass of Jews and Christians doubt the authorship by Moses of the Pentateuch. Several eccentric and sensational efforts have, however, been made in this direction, and several of them have shown considerable ingenuity, research and talent for sophistical reasoning. It would be tedious to enumerate all the enterprising explorers in this debateable field of what must, to a certain extent, be regarded as mystery. Those which, in the United States, have attracted most attention have been an essay by Delia Bacon, published in Putnam's Magazine for January, 1857, and subsequently expanded into a small volume; and the book whose title heads this notice.

The end and aim of all writers on the subject appears to be not only to establish the impossibility of one whom Mr. Holmes elegantly calls "a cony-catching, beer drinking idler, or a common play-actor, or even a prosperous stage-manager" having written these immortal dramas, but collaterally to prove that they must have been written by the great Lord Bacon. The pith of Mr. Holmes's argument is, that Shakespeare is universally admitted to have been a man of no education; that no man not highly cultivated could have composed the plays; therefore, that they could not have been composed by Shakespeare. He states and seeks to support his case in very pragmatical style and with a pretentious modesty of diction that does not lead us to form an elevated opinion of him as a man of large views and impartial judgment. He is evidently a person, who, having once straddled a hobby, will rock back and forth upon it, until some one tripping it from behind, causes him to pitch ignominiously over its head and leave him sprawling. Not that, even then, do we imagine he would give up his cherished faith in its being the best and most original hobby that ever was created.

He has unquestionably persuaded himself that he has undertaken a mission of vast importance and value, and that the object of that mission is to arrive at and disseminate pure and unadulterated fact. He says: "By the help of the Eternal Power, and such abilities as we" (the "we" is his) "possess, let the truth" (it will be perceived he assumes that the conclusions he has jumped to are the truth) "and the proof of it come forth as fast and spread as wide as it is possible to make it." But he admits, to start with, "it" (the book) "does not presume to contain anything that is positively new, or that was unknown before; it claims only to state things in their own way." Without stopping to captiously criticise the novel principle of a book "presuming" or "claiming" anything, we would venture to remark that an individual who would sit down and perseveringly go to work to manufacture six hundred and one pages of print, upon a matter whereon he had nothing new to say, certainly cannot possess that form of mind which is calculated to teach other minds the way wherein they should go, or the kind of development they should labor to secure. A lengthened review of the body of the work would be a waste of time. Its whole theory, and the visionary superstructure of speculation based thereon, have been thoroughly canvassed and analyzed by the most experienced, erudite and dispassionate of critics, and the fine spun fabric long since scattered to the winds as ruthlessly and irretrievably as are the pollen of the dandelion by the breath of wanton schoolboys.

Yet there are one or two remarks we will make upon an adventure doomed to be barren and disastrous from its inception.

How does Mr. Holmes—how does any of us know that Shakespeare was an illiterate, or even moderately educated man. There are some data going to show that he was wild and reckless in youth; cony-catcher, play-actor, if you will. But how do we not know that he may have—with the wonderful powers of mind that the sublimity of his plays places beyond cavil, and the industry which their number attests—have resolutely gone to work and educated himself? Would he be the only man of humble birth who had done this? It is almost certain he never could have been the boon companion of Ben Jonson and the social friend of the Earl of Salisbury had he not accomplished something of the kind. And—doubt as we may—his paternity of Much Ado About Nothing, and his right to claim Hamlet as the offspring of his marvellous brain—the fact of these personal associations cannot be disputed. Toward so much the testimony is overwhelming and, we fancy, has never been controverted; save by the few idiots who contend that Shakespeare never lived at all.

Again: McHolmes's strong point is that he has compared Shakespeare, passage for passage, with the best writings of Lord Bacon, and that he finds a wonderful analogy between them. Thought identical; philosophy the same; phraseology in many places singular similar. Well, take it for granted they are, and Mr. Holmes quotes many passages in juxtaposition to satisfy us that what he says is correct. Might not Shakespeare's reflective mind have deeply studied the works of the great Lord Keeper and have culled many gems of the thought that he has set so rarely; have garnered and practicalized the cream of the philosophy, that he has made familiar to the world? Or, still more likely, might not the Queen's favorite poet and her most highly honored lawyer have come often together in those contemporaneous days and have exchanged the treasures of their unrivalled intellects?

Further: if Lord Bacon wrote Hamlet, who wrote Richard, Duke of Glo'ster? The one is the perfection of dramatic grandeur; the other little more than a tinsel melo-drama. If Lord Bacon wrote Much Ado About Nothing, who wrote The Comedy of Errors? The one is the most exquisite heroic comedy upon the stage; the other a mere burlesque. Now Shakespeare, professional playwright and manager, while at the same time a man of extraordinary genius, might have done both; but it is absurd to suppose that a man possessed of Lord Bacon's peculiar cast of mental condition ever could. Shakespeare may be supposed to have sometimes, when having leisure, taken pains to have elaborated his thoughts and to have produced something intellectually glorious. Then again, in his character of manager, he would be hard pressed for novelty and hurriedly scratch off such blatant stuff as Titus Andronicus or such ridiculous buffoonery as we find in Love's Labor Lost. Lord Bacon never could have been anything but dignified, measured and calm. Had he written Hamlet there would have been no grave diggers in it; or, if the Merchant of Venice, there would have been no Gobbo. But why spend further words in fighting a chimera?

The Rise and the Fall; or the Origin of Moral Evil. In Three Parts. Part I. The Suggestions of Reason. Part II. The Disclosures of Revelation. Part III. The Confirmations of Theology. One volume 12mo. pp. 311. New York, Hurd & Houghton; Pittsburgh, Davis, Clark & Co.

This book is one which we scarcely feel it our province to criticise. It is purely philosophical, and treats in rather a sentimental manner upon abstruse questions, concerning which, after all has been said, we literally know nothing. It is very speculative and metaphysical, while aiming to be positive and simple, and this, inevitably, because its author tries to navigate a sea of thought the currents of which must bring him back to the point from which he started—the light given us through the Bible. He is compelled to take the first three chapters of Genesis for his text, and, having done so, he might as well have dispensed with the long analytical discourse which they seem to have suggested to him. Such works do little good. They outrage narrow minds, perplex weak ones, and compel the self-willed to find a creed of their own—usually a negative creed, which ends in infidelity. Still The Rise and Fall will be extensively read and give occasion for much cotroversy. We prefer leaving it to the tender mercies of the religious press.

The Monkey of Portobello; A Jolly Bear and His Friends; The Truant Chicken. New York: Houghton. Pittsburgh: Davis, Clark & Co.

Three delightful little stories in rhyme, especially suited to the capacities of little children. They are written by Charles Dawson Shanley, and illustrated by H. L. Stephens. But the writing and drawing, excellent as both must be allowed to be, are as nothing compared to the gorgeous illuminations which make their covers a resplendent mass of green and blue and brown and gold. The title pages are luminous with color, and every initial letter is a brilliant little vignette of itself. They are the most superbly and artistically executed things of the kind we have ever seen, and will make handsome and appropriate presents for our very juvenile friends.

Ballads, Lyrics and Hymns. By Alice Cary. New York: Hurd & Houghton. Pittsburgh: Davis, Clark & Co.

It is impossible, without a close and conscientious perusal, to do justice to so elegant and meritorious a book as this. Such a perusal, at no distant time, we propose to devote to it, reviewing, in a spirit of discriminative admiration, the exquisite poems with which its pages teem, and reproducing such of the more sparkling gems or saddened flowers as we think most beautiful. Alice Cary is no mere rythmist or versifier. She may not possess absolute and overwhelming genius like Mrs. Browning, nor the quaint original power of Jean Ingelow; but there is a sweetness, a tenderness, a kindly woman's heart vibrating through every line she puts to paper, that has rarely been equalled by any female poet we could name. And sometimes she is bright and playful, casting joyous rays of sunshine through the flitting clouds that cast half shadows over the pathways of her sympathetic muse.

We cannot quote, now; but we can say, all that is best that Alice Cary ever wrote for newspapers and magazines has been collected into this volume, and many of her more elaborate efforts, which were never thus popularized, have been judiciously added. The poems are divided into three sections. First: Ballads. Second: Thoughts and Theories. Third: Hymns. This classification has been excellently made and leaves the reader to choose whichever way he or she may prefer to have the feelings touched: either by power of descriptive interest, sentimental emotion or religious fervor. The names of these poems would alone stamp Miss Cary as a softly subtle female artist. Every title is felicitous. The germ of the thought, of which the verses themselves are the full fruition, can always be traced in them. Thackeray and Dickens were never more suggestive in the headings they put to their chapters than is Alice Cary in the christening of her intellectual offspring.

Throughout the volume are interspersed some of the most exquisite vignettes that were ever etched. Several of the leading painters of New York and other cities have come down from their easels to grace the delightful fancies of the pen with appropriate illustrations of the pencil. Among the best of those who have done so, we find the names of Hochstein, Bellows, Fenn, Carey, J. G. Brown, Wm. Hart and Launt Thompson. These are all engraved on wood; yet, from the delicacy of their finish and warmth of color, they might be taken for the finest work on steel. The only steel plate, however, is the frontispiece, an admirably executed portrait of Alice Cary herself. The imprint is of the clearest and handsomest type imaginable, arranged with faultless taste; the paper is a fine ivoried cream, solid almost as vellum, and the binding is of thick boards neatly covered and stamped with brilliant gilt devices.

Practical Minerology, Assaying and Mining; with a description of the Useful Minerals, and Instructions for Assaying and Mining, according to the Simplest Methods. By Frederick Overman, Mining Engineer, author of Manufacture of Iron and other works of applied science. Seventh edition. Philadelphia: Lindsay & Blackiston. Pittsburgh: Davis, Clarke & Co.

This voluminous transcript of the title page of a little compendium before us fully explains the tenor and intent of what will be found in its pages. It is a hand-book and epitome of useful knowledge, and the fact of its having reached its eleventh edition is sufficient to show the estimation in which it is held by those engaged or intending to engage in the pursuits of which it treats. It is wonderful, on looking over it, to discover what wealth of treasure is buried under the surface of this vast continent of ours.

Rules of Order. A Manual for Conducting Business in Town and Ward Meetings, Societies, Boards of Directors and Managers, and other Deliberative Bodies. Based on Parliamentary, Congressional and Legislative Practice. By Benjamin Matthias, A. M. Eleventh Edition, Philadelphia: Lindsay & Blakeston. Pittsburgh: Davis, Clarke & Co.

Here is another title which conveys as much concerning the contents of the book it describes as any lengthened notice could do. It is a reliable work of its class, bound neatly and of a size convenient for carrying in the pocket. Every one in office or expecting to be should possess and study a copy.

A Grammatical Analyzer: or the Derivation and Definition of Words, with their Grammatical Classification. For the use of Schools and Families. By W. J. Tenney. New York: D. Appleton & Co. Pittsburgh: Davis, Clarke & Co.

Such an explanatory title requires no further elucidation. We may say, though, this is one of the best works of its class ever published.

The Sad Eventful Story of a Suicide.

We find in the Detroit Post, of the 20th inst., the following eventful story and sad end of a ruined and deserted girl, the daughter of respectable parents:

About a year ago a farmer named Colwell, one in good circumstances, having a fine farm in Erie, Pa., on which he lived, sent his daughter, a girl about eighteen years of age, to the female seminary at Painesville, Ohio, to have her education finished before "coming out" in society. The rules of the institution allow the young ladies in attendance to receive male visitors every Wednesday afternoon, and at no other time. At one of these receptions Delia Colwell made the acquaintance of a worthless scamp named Henry Brand, who was well known in the town as an idle, dissipated roue whose pleasant ways made him popular among the ladies. Brand, who was struck with the young girl's appearance, immediately plotted for her ruin. He visited her a number of times on the allotted days, and became so intimate with her as to induce her to leave the seminary on pleasant evenings, and walk with him in the grounds surrounding it.

These violations of the rules of the place came accidentally to the ears of the matron of the seminary, and she called the girl up and forbade her seeing Brand again, under penalty of expulsion. But her precautions did not avail. The pair were subsequently caught in the most flagrant act possible for a school, or any other kind of girl or young woman. Delia Colwell was called before the whole school and publicly expelled, but kept in the building until her father could be sent for.

On his arrival the state of the case was laid before him. He resolved to take his erring daughter home, and before doing so to give the seducer a sound thrashing. This last resolution he immediately carried into effect, doing justice to his angriest vows in the matter. But Brand was not easily stalled off. When the father and daughter started for home, he, without the knowledge of the father, took the same train, and by some means informed the daughter and agreed to elope with her. At Girard, Pa., two trains met, and the guilty pair, who were on the eastern bound train, got aboard the one bound west, just as both trains started, the girl making some excuse to leave her father for a moment. The twain left the cars at a small station, the next one west of Girard, and, in order to elude pursuit, took to the woods.

After traveling around for some time they met a man traveling with a wagon towards Conneaut, Ashtabula county, Ohio. They rode with him, and on reaching that place took the scow Sea Bird and came to this city. In order to throw their pursuers off the track, Brand and the girl took board at the House of a German on Hastings street. Brand repeatedly promised in answer to the importunities of the girl to marry her. After living with her as his wife about a year, she found one morning that she was deserted and worse, enciente. When two weeks elapsed and the man with whom she was boarding called for his pay for her board bill, she was turned out of door and wandered about town in a most wretched state, living as best she could on what she picked up in out of the way places. About four weeks ago some people passing by an alley in the vicinity of her former boarding place, heard groans and discovered the woman in the pangs of child birth. She was picked up and properly cared for. After partially recovering, the memory of her shame and ruin impressed her so that she became partially insane, and she passed under the sobriquet of "Crazy Dell."

On Thursday she left her home, taking with her the little child, and nothing was known of her until this morning, when some of her clothes were found on the river bank, above the Milwaukee depot, and it is supposed that she has in her despair committed suicide, drowning herself and child.

Brand has not been seen or heard from, but should it prove that the poor unfortunate has killed herself, he will in his inmost heart feel that he wears the badge of a double murderer. Her sorrows are ended, and his will begin with her death. It is an oft repeated story that gathers pathos with every repetition.

BROWN'S VERMIFUGE COMFITS OR WORM LOZENGES.—Much sickness undoubtedly, with children and adults attributed to other causes, is occasioned by worms. The "VERMIFUGE COMFITS," although effectual in destroying worms, can do no positive injury to the most delicate child. This valuable combination has been successfully used by physicians, and found to be safe and sure in eradicating worms, so hurtful to children.

Children having worms require immediate attention, as neglect of the trouble often causes prolonged sickness.

Symptoms of worms in children are often overlooked. Worms in the stomach and bowels cause irritation which can be removed only by the use of a sure remedy. The combination of ingredients used in making BROWN'S "VERMIFUGE COMFITS" is such as to give the best possible effect with safety. Sold wholesale and retail in Pittsburgh, at FLEMING'S Drug and Patent Medicine Depot, No. 84 Market street. oc5MTAW

OHIO RIVER IMPROVEMENT.

TO STONE CONTRACTORS.

SEALED PROPOSALS will be received in Pittsburgh, Pa., at the Office of the Superintending Engineer of the OHIO RIVER IMPROVEMENT, Southwest corner of THIRD and MARKET STREETS, until TUESDAY, the 6th of November, 1866, for quarrying and delivering stone on the river bank, and loading, transporting, and putting the same into Dams at the points below named. The stones are to be of such quality and dimensions as shall be approved of by the said Engineer; generally four or five cubic feet, and not less than one cubic foot each. The bids must state the price per cubic yard for the stone quarried and delivered on the river bank ready for loading on the flats; and the price per cubic yard for loading, transporting and putting the stone into the dams; to be measured by the Engineer. The work to be commenced forthwith, and vigorously prosecuted in accordance with the directions of the Engineer. Ten per cent of the monthly estimates of work done will be reserved as security for the fulfillment of the contract. Bidders are requested to accompany their proposals with the names of two sureties.

Stock and Real Estate Broker.

FOR SALE—400 ACRES OF COAL LAND, lying immediately upon the Ohio River, 20 miles below Gallipolis and 185 miles above Cincinnati. On the above tract is a 4 foot vein of coal, which for general purposes is unsurpassed. It is entirely different from Southern Ohio coal—contains but little sulphur, forges and cokes well, and for making steam cannot be excelled. Being about midway between Pomeroy and Hanging Rock, makes it valuable for coaling boats. There is a water front of three-quarters of a mile with good landing at all stages of water. An entrance has been run in the hill 300 feet, track finished to river: together with the necessary fixtures for mining and delivering coal afloat. On said track is a first class Double Portable Circular Saw Mill, together with a Portable Grist Mill, all in good running order, and plenty of the very best oak, ash and poplar timber.
Would sell one-half interest if desired, to a party with experience and capital for working same.

[WH]AT SHALL WE DO FOR COAL?

Eloquent Tribute to American Energy.

[From E. P. Whipple's new volume, "Character and Characteristic Men."]

...would, indeed, be a grotesque libel on ...he ten millions of educated people to ...lare that American literature repre...ted more than a fraction of American ...elligence. That intelligence has re...ved a practical direction, and is ex...ssed, not in Iliads and Æneids, not in ...ncipias and Cartoons, but in commerce, ...nanufactures, in the liberal professions, ...he mechanic arts, in the arts of gov...ment and legislation, in all those fields ...abor where man grapples directly with ...ure, or with social problems which per...x his practical activity. To describe ...miracles which American energy has ...ought in these departments, would be to ...ade a domain sacred to caucus speeches ...d all kinds of starred-and-striped ...vado, and perhaps they speak for ...mselves with far more emphasis than ...tors can speak for them, having hiero...phed, as Carlyle would say, "America, ...mark," over a whole continent; but it ...not generally admitted that mind—ana...ical, assimilative, constructive, crea...e mind—is as much implied in these ...actical directions of intelligence as in ab...act science and the fine arts; so that, if ...udden upward ideal turn were given to ...national sentiment, the intellectual ...ergy which would leave contriving ...treads, calculating markets, and crea...g capital, and rush into epics, lyrics and ...storals, would make Wall street stare ...d totter, and our present generation of ...ets strangle themselves with their own ...es. Indeed, observation, reason and ...agination are powers which do not lose ...ir nature in their application to widely ...ferent objects.

Thus, Sir William Hamilton, the acutest ...alyst of Aristotle's mental processes, de...res that abstruse and seemingly juice...s metaphysician to have had as great an ...agination as Homer; and though we are ...one to associate imagination with some ...vation of sentiment, Shakspeare has ...ven more of it to Iago, and Goethe has ...ven more of it to Mephistopheles, than ...ture gave to Bishop Heber, the purest ...England's minor poets. Applying this ...inciple to business, we shall find much ...disturb the self-conceit of second rate ...terateurs and savans, who are accus...med to congratulate themselves that, if ...hers have the money, they at least have ...e brains, if we should sharply scrutinize ...e mental processes of a first rate mer...ant. Is it observation you demand? ...ehold with what keen accuracy he per...ives and discriminates facts. Is ...understanding? Look at the ...ng trains of reasoning—the conclusion ...each argument forming the premise of ...e next—by which he moves, step by ...ep, to an induction on whose soundness ...risks character and fortune. Is it will? ...ark him when a financial hurricane ...veeps over the money market, and ob...rve how firm is his grasp of principles, ...d how intelligently his cold eyes survey ...e future, while croakers all around him ...re selling and sacrificing their property ...paroxysms of imbecile apprehension. ...s it imagination? See how to him, in his ...ingy countinghouse, the past becomes ...resent, and the distant near; his mind ...peeding from St. Petersburg to London, ...om Smyrna to Calcutta, on wings which ...ock the swiftness of steamers and tele...raphs, or bridging over the spaces which ...ivide sensible realities from ideal ...ossibilities, see how he blends in one ...onsistent idea and purpose stray ...houghts and separate facts, whose hidden ...nalogies the eye alone of imagination ...ould divine. Is it, in short, general force ...nd refinement of mind? Behold how ...omprehensive and how cautious is his ...lance over that sensitive, quivering, ever-...hifting sea of commercial phenomena—so ...vide as to belt the globe, and so intimately ...onnected that a jar in any part sends a ...hrill through the whole—and note with ...what subtle certainty of insight he pene...rates beneath the seeming anarchy, and ...lutches the slippery and elusive, but un...arying laws. This is, indeed, a commer...ial genius, as well as a poetical and met...physical genius—the faculties the same, ...he sentiments and the direction different. ...Wealth may be, if you please, often inso...lent and unfeeling; may scorn as vision-ary things more important than wealth; but still it is less frequently blundered into than artists and philosophers are inclined to believe.

INVALIDISM.

From an article on this subject in the November Atlantic we copy the following:

Then one is eternally busy with the dust and small disorders around—the film on the mirror, the lint-drifts under the stove, the huge cobwebs flying from the corners, the knickknacks awry on the mantel-piece; then one finds the wall-paper is not hung true, and gazes at flaws in the ceiling till they grow into dancing-jacks, and hears the doors that slam like the shock of a cannon. These are torments so minute that there seems no virtue even in bearing them. Ah! to mount to execution for an idea—that were glorious and sustaining; but to endure the daily burden of these petty tortures—one never hears the music play them.

Among the articles to be desired of science is a false hand, or a spectral arm, that shall reach miraculously about—not a fruit picker or a carpet sweeper, but something working with the fineness of an elephant's trunk—thus to end the discomfort of those orange seeds spilled on the far side of the room, while, lying inactive, one reaches, reaches with a patient power which, if transformed into the practical, would push an army through Austria.

Another thing which the invalid has to endure is from the thoughtlessness of visitors. How often, when summoned from the sick room for any purpose, do they briskly remark, in Tom Thumb style: "I'll be back in a very few minutes!" Hence one lies awake by force, keeping several errands to be dispatched on the turn, changing variously all the little plans for the next hour or two, and waits. My experience generally is, that they have not come back yet.

But the commonest experience is when life itself seems to hang on the arrival of the doctor. Indeed it is safe to say that never have lovers been so waited for as the doctor. Wasn't that his carriage at the door? Medicine is out! new symptoms appear! it is only an hour to bed-time! and, oh! will the doctor come, do you think? One listens more intently; but now there are no carriages. There are express wagons, late ice carts, out-of-town stages, or here and there a light rolling buggy, that seems running on to the end of the world. There are but few foot passengers either, and they all go by without halting, and there is no indication in the steps of any man of them that he would be the doctor if he could. Thus one wears through the night uncomforted, yet one does not usually die. I have also seen the doctors sitting in their offices expectant, and probably quite as much distressed that every one went by without stopping. So the balances are kept.

The foregoing grievances are often put among the foolish humors of invalids, but they are quite reasonable compared with many of the droll fancies on record. Take the instance of the elderly man who had been dying suddenly for twenty years; whose last moments would probably amount to a calendar month, and his farewell words to an octavo volume. His physician he pronounced a clever man, but added, pitifully, "I only wish he would agree to my going suddenly; I should not die a bit sooner for his giving me over." It is evident the physician had not the shrewdest insight, or he would have granted this heady maniac his way. "Ah!" would exclaim the constantly departing patient, "all one's nourishment goes for nothing if once sudden death has got insidiously into the system!" More famous were Johnson with his inevitable dried orange peel, and Byron with his salts. Goethe, too, after renouncing his Lotte, coquetted with the idea of his death, every night placing a very handsome dagger by his bed and making sundry attempts to push the point a couple of inches into his breast. Not being able to do this comfortably, he concluded to live. Years after, when he sat assured on his grand poet throne, he must have smiled at it, as with Karl August he "talked of lovely things that conquer death." And still more refined and genuine was the vapor of the imaginative young girl who died of love for the Appolo Belvedere.

MEDICAL.

E. S. ABORN, M. D. OCULAR AND AURAL SURGEON, AND Physician for the Diseases of the Respiratory Organs, HAS TAKEN ROOMS AT THE Merchants' Hotel.

Where he will be prepared to practice the most recent and scientific system of MEDICINE and SURGERY, for the alleviation of suffering humanity.

ALL DISEASES OF THE EYE AND EAR,

AND THE ORGANS OF THE CHEST, TREATED WITH THE UTMOST SUCCESS.

Embracing all Acute and Chronic Maladies of the Eye, Blindness, Cross Eye, Falling of the Eyelid, Cataract, etc., Deafness, Roaring and Buzzing in the Ears, Discharge from the Ears, etc., Diseases of the Nose, Catarrh, Bronchitis, Asthma, Consumption and Affections of the Heart and Stomach.

HEALTH IS THE HIGHEST BLESSING!

Man will give all he has for relief from disability and pain. Yet thousands suffer for a long series of years, and linger out a useless life, who, with proper treatment, might be restored to health and contribute to the health and happiness of others. But the fault is not with the patient, for he tries persistently the various Doctors and

QUACK NOSTRUMS

For relief and finds it not. The reason is, the general physician has but little time to inform himself in regard to the improvements in medicine and surgery. Many physicians know but little of the causes of disease, and are consequently ignorant of cure, with but a limited opportunity for extensive study, and restricted in their observations to a small circle of country, they cannot expect to become expert in all diseases. A scientific and practical means of cure must result from long study and extensive research in respect to special diseases. Of this fact medical men of this country and all the countries of Europe are aware; and the ablest practitioners are giving their best energies to special diseases. They have mastered the laws of life and health—marked the pathological changes in disease—and found safe and effectual remedies. To long and patient study of the diseases of the

Eye, Ear, Throat, Lungs and Chest,

And his discoveries of new remedies and new applications of old ones, Dr. ABORN owes his unparalleled success in curing diseases that have long baffled all previous treatment. And his dexterous and delicate surgical operations on the EYE, EAR, &c., are the fruits of his exact knowledge of Anatomy and an extensive practice of his art as surgeon of the Eye and Ear Infirmary of San Francisco, California, and as Physician and Surgeon-in-Chief of the Nashville Medical and Surgical Institute. The most despairing invalids will be encouraged to hope for cure on visiting his rooms and witnessing the numerous testimonials and evidence of his skill. oc19

COURT OF OYER AND TERMINER.

The Stein-Roberts Murder Trial—Second Day's Proceedings.

The Court of Oyer and Terminer met yesterday morning at nine o'clock, when the trial of Charles B. Stein for the murder of David Roberts, was resumed. The evidence for the prosecution having been closed on the previous day, R. B. Parkinson, Esq., proceeded to open the case on the part of the defense. He stated that it would not be denied, on the part of the defense, that Roberts was shot by Stein, and that death resulted from the wound thus received. They would contend, however, that the shooting was done while a gross, violent, dangerous assault was being committed upon the wife of defendant, by Roberts, or at least some of his companions. In other words, the deed was done in self-defense.

On the conclusion of the gentleman's remarks to the jury, the following testimony was offered on the part of the defense:

John Grabe, sworn—Was at Stein's tavern on the 26th of May last; it was about eight o'clock in the evening when I got there; saw Mr. and Mrs. Stein, and barkeeper; there were other persons there, but did not know them; Mr. Gussler went into the saloon with me; after I had been there about half an hour, three or four men came in; did not know them; don't know their names; don't know whether I saw any of them on the stand yesterday; the men asked for beer; Mrs. Stein sat the beer on the counter and asked for money; she did not get any, and she took it away; it was quiet for awhile; there were three or four men standing at the other end of the counter; one of them asked for a cigar; Mrs. Stein handed it to him, and he lit it; shortly afterwards two Germans, Bassler and Soeller, came in; while I was drinking my beer, heard the four men speaking to Stein; did not hear what they said; the one who was smoking puffed the smoke into Stein's face; Stein told him to stop, but he continued to do so; Stein then knocked the cigar from his mouth; the man demanded that Stein should pick it up; Stein refused, and the party wanted to fight; Stein said he couldn't fight, but produced a revolver. Mrs. Stein then gave the man another cigar and shoved him back; the man appeared to be in a great rage, ...

FINANCE AND TRADE.

WEDNESDAY, October 24—P. M.

There was scarcely a movement in any of our local stocks to-day that would suggest a paragraph by way of remark. Most of our heavy stock operators confine their attention to the Eastern Stock Boards, and they are more alive to the changes incident to that market than their own. Once in a while there is a little spurt in our local stocks that causes a shuffle among the certificates and a slight change in figures, but it soon settles down into the same dull monotony that generally characterizes this stock market.

—The noon reports of the New York Stock Board received at Bryan's Stock Rooms, indicate an advance in gold, and a firmness in the leading names of the stock list. The abundance and cheapness of money afford a wide scope for speculation. The Herald says the earnings of the leading railways are highly calculated to stimulate the upward movements of railway shares to a point which it would appear rash to denote. The higher the market rises the quicker it seems to rise and the more buoyant the speculative feeling becomes. Even the speculative mania of the spring of 1864 bids fair to be eclipsed in 1866, and with real values in their favor it is hard to say how high prices may be carried before the year closes. The outside public is largely enlisted in stock operations, and the orders from the Western section of the country are known to be unusually heavy, while the number of buyers is increasing daily.

—The most active stocks at the Mining Board are Atlantic and Pacific, La Crosse, Corydon, Nye, and consolidated Gregory. Corydon sold ...
